

FURTHER LEAGUE EMBARGO AGAINST
ITALY APPROVED
IN SUBCOMMITTEE

Tentative Proposal to Add Iron, Oil, Coal and Steel to List Goes to Committee of 18 for Its Action Tomorrow.

RECOMMENDATION ON TRANSIT PROBLEM

Decision Reached That Members Continue Normal Trade With Countries Not Participating in Sanctions.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Nov. 5.—The League of Nations Subcommittee on Economic Sanctions today approved a resolution concerning the placing of an embargo on the exportation to Italy of petroleum, coal, iron and steel. The subcommittee approved it, in principle, yesterday.

The resolution says that if it relies from governments and the information at the disposal of the Committee of Co-ordination render the embargo opportune, suggestions will be made for putting the embargo into effect.

Suggestion on Transit Problem. The resolution will be passed on to the committee of 18 for action tomorrow. If the committee of 18 adopts the resolution, the entire documentation bearing on the League's decision will be forwarded to Washington.

The subcommittee on transit problems decided in principle today that states participating in sanctions against Italy will not interfere with their normal trade to states not participating in sanctions.

Fear was voiced by some quarters that merchandise thus exported would reach Italy indirectly. The subcommittee, a division of the League Sanctions Committee, decided the situation should be watched, and, if Italy seems to be benefiting by swollen importations from non-participating states, measures could be devised to meet this situation.

What Decision Means. Concretely, the decision means that, for example, the flow of nickel from Canada to the United States would not be restricted even though Canada, a member of the League, might fear such merchandise would find its way to Italy and help destroy the effects of the general economic boycott.

Similarly, European nations would not curb their exportation to Germany, although they might be apprehensive the products would be sent on to Italy. Instead, they would wait to see how the situation develops.

The dominant idea of the discussion was that the League should do nothing to complicate its relations with states not participating in sanctions, when they are non-members of the League or members like Austria, Hungary and Albania, which are not enforcing sanctions.

Some delegates want all ships calling at ports of participating states examined for contraband, but when the British say this would be difficult and might result in ships sailing directly to Italian and German ports.

Still, it was learned, prefers not to cancel an order for nine destroyers to be built in Italian shipyards.

France Begins Application of Credit Sanctions Against Italy. PARIS, Nov. 5.—Application of sanctions forbidding commercial credit to Italians began in France today with publication of a notice in the Official Journal advising merchants and manufacturers to sell in Italy only for cash.

The business men were also asked to report by Nov. 12 the amounts due them for merchandise sold in Italy before the sanctions were imposed.

MEAT AND FUEL RESTRICTION PUT IN FORCE IN ITALY

Butcher Shops Closed for Day—Public Meals Reduced, but Prices Are Not.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Nov. 5.—Fascist Italy put into effect today self-imposed economies to combat League of Nations' sanctions.

Butcher shops closed for the day; public dining was limited to a single meat or fish course in a meal. Henceforth, under Premier Mussolini's six-month edict, meat stores will close every Tuesday and sell no pork, veal or beef on Wednesday. Meat and poultry, however, were on sale on the open markets which do much food retailing throughout the nation. The Fascists were uncertain whether the closing order was limited to the meat shops.

Many offices and stores began a light-saving schedule, opening and closing early.

The National Association for Fuel Control applied limitations on sales of combustibles of all sorts, and set up a heating control organization, coal and gasoline to be distributed guardedly to conserve supplies for the army.

The average diet did not include, even before the restrictions, both fish and meat at the same meal. Spaghetti and noodles, the stand-by for the middle and lower class families, were not affected by the order.

Although meals were reduced, prices were not. The one course reductions were ignored in the making up of most weekly board bills.

The price of gasoline went up sharply, from 85 cents to $1.08 a gallon. The increase goes to the Government as taxes.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 5.—The hurricane which swept across Southern Florida yesterday, causing three deaths and injuries to more than 100 persons, was blowing in the Gulf of Mexico today, endangering shipping.

The storm skirted the Bahama Islands before hitting the mainland near Miami yesterday. Damage at Miami was the heaviest, frame buildings being blown down, homes and business houses unroofed and windows broken during the eight-hour blow.

The dead: Ruth Levy, 13 years old, of Miami, crushed by a falling beam. An unidentified sailor aboard the steamship Harila, struck by a flying ventilator. An unidentified Negro at Hialeah.

Commercial and pleasure boats were pounded by waves and wind, and several were thrown on the land. Most of the yacht docks here were destroyed.

The Coast Guard cutters Seneca and Saranac were dispatched to aid an unidentified freighter which sent up flames three-quarters of a mile off Miami Beach. The Saranac reached the freighter, identifying it as a Bull Line ship, reported it was in no immediate danger, and said several vessels were standing by.

Nassau reported five Bahama fishing smacks missing. Rain and tide water flooded streets of the beach areas to a depth of three feet. Highways were washed out and power lines broken.

The Madison Square Garden arena here and the Hialeah race plant were damaged. Several motor cars were wrecked by falling signs and trees.

Start of Storm.

The storm at Miami started with wind and rain, the velocity of the wind reaching 66 miles an hour. This lasted for two hours, after which came the full characteristic of the passing of the storm's center. Residents took advantage of the interval to shutter windows and make their houses as secure as possible.

Pedestrians cluttered building corners or the telephone poles for support. Some motor cars got out of control. Bricks, stones and timbers were blown about. Breakers dashed on Biscayne boulevard, a water front drive, flooding low lying parts.

The wind rose to 83 miles an hour but an hour later decreased to 60 and 70 miles.

The 18-story Daily News building and the 27-story Dade County courthouse swayed visibly.

Street cars, without power, and disabled automobiles stood stranded in midblock. Broken palm and coconut trees littered the streets.

The 188-foot yacht Arcadia, owned by Mrs. Huntington Hardwick of Boston, sank in 20 feet of water off the County Causeway. Jammed against the yacht and also sunk in the 274-foot Chalene, owned by Charles E. F. McCann of Glen Cove, L. I.

Twelve small boats and a 36-foot cabin cruiser were swept across the concrete highway skirting the bay at Coconut Grove, and left high and dry on lawn.

Florida Keys Evacuated. Relief workers evacuated the Florida keys as a precaution against repetition of the Labor day tragedy, in which tropical disturbance killed 400 persons, but the area escaped damage. The storm was a month behind the close of the usual hurricane season.

Chairman M. R. Harrison of the Disaster Relief Committee estimated damage in the Miami area, exclusive of public utilities, at $1,000,000. The loss in citrus and other crops was estimated at $500,000.

Many parts of Miami were in darkness last night, but the downtown section was lit. About 50 persons received emergency treatment by candle light at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

With reservoirs emptying rapidly and pressure insufficient to force water above street level floors, efforts were being made to repair severed power lines to Miami's municipal buildings.

MUEENCHES GET
ATTACHMENT WRIT
FOR DR. THOMPSON

Counsel Calls Physician Who Signed Statement Attesting Birth but Later Repudiated It.

DR. C. H. DENNY
TAKES THE STAND

He Attended Anna Ware—Says He Couldn't Identify Her Baby and Doesn't Think Anyone Can.

Mrs. Helen Berroyer, faithful friend of Dr. and Mrs. Ludwig Muench, completed her testimony at 3:12 o'clock this afternoon in the St. Louis Court of Appeals, where she is a respondent in the Anna Ware habeas corpus proceeding.

She had been on the witness stand more than five hours, about 30 minutes of which was under cross-examination.

Thereupon counsel for the Muenches, who had halted the presentation of their response yesterday afternoon to permit Mrs. Berroyer and two of her witnesses to testify, called Dr. Maurice Thompson, the obscure Kirkwood physician who retracted a certificate which he had signed for Mrs. Muench that she had given birth to a child.

The Marshal, after calling Dr. Thompson, reported that he did not answer. Muench counsel then read a notice of service, obtained on Dr. Thompson last Saturday, and an attachment was issued for him.

Dr. Muench has not been in court since the respondents started their testimony. His wife, as is known, has been barred from the courtroom for contemptuous remarks last Wednesday when the Court took custody of the baby "as evidence."

Dr. Chester H. Denny on Stand. Dr. Chester H. Denny, who delivered Anna Ware's baby Aug. 17, was called as a witness in behalf of Dr. and Mrs. Muench. He said, answering questions of their lawyer, that he would not be able to identify the baby if he should see it again; and that, because of the changes which take place in the first few weeks of infant life, he doubted whether anyone who had seen it only on the day of birth could identify it two or three months later.

Asked specifically whether such an identification would have been possible last Wednesday, when Anna Ware saw the baby and declared it to be hers, he said he did not believe it would be possible, unless there were some distinguishing mark; and that he had noticed no such mark.

Anna Ware's lawyer, on cross-examination, got from Dr. Denny the statement that a baby born Aug. 17, 1935, weighed 8½ pounds, the testified weight of Anna Ware's baby, would now weigh 12 or 13 pounds—the baby in the Court's custody weighed 12 pounds last week.

Dr. Denny, who is a nephew of Alfred Muench, was asked if he had ever told anyone that Anna Ware's baby was in the Muench home. He replied that if he did make such a remark, it was in the early stages of the inquiry, before the filing of the habeas corpus suit, and that "it was probably in a joking manner." A Muench motion that the answer be struck out was overruled.

Mrs. Berroyer's Testimony: She Saw Baby Night It Arrived. Testifying in her own behalf as a respondent, Mrs. Berroyer said she was in the Muench home at 4:36 Westminister place the night of Aug. 17-18, when Dr. Muench certified a son was born to his wife, less than two hours after Anna Ware's newborn baby boy had been taken from her.

She Saw Baby, but Not Close. In her testimony yesterday, Mrs. Berroyer asserted she did not see the baby born, and made no mention of seeing it, or of hearing it cry, although she said she stood in the hallway outside the room while Dr. Muench and another man were "attending" Mrs. Muench. Today she testified that she saw the baby when it was at the foot of the bed, and that she "didn't see it close."

Under cross-examination today Mrs. Berroyer answered questions as to her present employment as stenographer with a grain firm, and said she was born in Panama, in 1904, lived there until her marriage in 1922; that her son was born in 1923, and that she was divorced in 1928. During a separation from her husband in 1928, she said, she was head waitress, or hostess, in a hotel at Port Orange, Fla.

Where She Was in 1925. "Where were you in 1925?" asked Anne's counsel.

"To be perfectly truthful," the witness replied, "that is a long story. I have never given it, and don't think I ought to. I think it is my privilege to remain silent."

PACIFIC NORTHWEST FRUIT

Other Crops Also Affected; Potato Growers Offered $30 and $32 a Ton, Formerly $12 and $14.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 5.—

Freezing temperatures, causing millions of dollars loss in frozen fruit, vegetable and forage crops, sent prices up in the Pacific Northwest yesterday.

Buyers offered potato growers: $30 and $32 a ton, compared with $12 and $14 paid a week ago. Lettuce rose from $1.35 to $1.75 a crate. Even Valencia oranges from California, formerly quoted at $2.50 to $4.25, were $3 and $5 a box.

The Wenatchee Valley lost 1800 car loads of apples, value, at $1,250,000, frozen on the trees, and thousands of boxes more, frosted while stored in the open. The Yakima Valley incurred an apple loss of $1,500,000 to $2,500,000 on estimates of 2000 to 3000 car loads frozen on the trees.

Buyers estimated 1000 acres of potatoes, still in the ground around Ellensburg, Wash., were a total loss.

ANOTHER NEW YORK
GANG MURDER

Body of Enemy of Dutch Schultz Found in Shallow Grave.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The body of a man found in a shallow grave near Monticello, N. Y., apparently the victim of a gang execution, was identified today by police as that of Charles "Chink" Sherman, once accused of stabbing Dutch Schultz in a Broadway night club. The identification was made through fingerprints.

Sherman, detectives said, long had been known as an enemy of Schultz, leader of New York City racketeers. Schultz and three of his gang were killed last month in a Newark (N. J.) tavern.

Sherman was the seventh victim of the new outbreak of gang warfare in the New York area.

Sherman, about 40 years old, had been dead several hours when his body, stripped of clothing, was found in a crude grave in an abandoned barn on the Monticello-Hurleyville highway.

His head appeared to have been crushed with an ax, just as "Pretty Louie" Amberg, Brooklyn racketeer, was treated by gangster executioners a few weeks ago. Amberg's body was found in a blazing automobile.

There was a bullet wound in Sherman's left arm. Quick lime had been sprinkled over the body.

In January, 1931, Schultz was stabbed during a wild affray in the Club Abbey, a Broadway resort. Sherman was suspected, but nothing came of it.

The body of another man, apparently beaten to death, was found in Knauth's Lake, near Clarkstown, which is 40 miles from Monticello on the way to New York. Finger prints were sent to New York City and Newark, N. J., police by authorities seeking a possible link with the recent Schultz slaying. Identification marks had been removed from the clothing. The man had been dead about 10 days. He was about 30.

CASE AGAINST
BROWN-OWEN

Under Agreement St. Louis Liquor Firm Will Pay Government $4000, Plead Guilty of Shipping Into Dry Territory.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE
WILL BE DROPPED

Attorney Says Beverly Brown and Clarence Owen Have Decided to Withdraw From Wholesale Business.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building. WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Department of Justice today compromised the criminal charges against Brown-Owen, Inc., St. Louis liquor dealers, on the condition that the firm pay the Federal Government $4000 and plead guilty of shipping liquor into dry territory. Under the agreement, other criminal charges against the St. Louis firm will be dropped.

In the discussion of the compromise, attorneys for the Brown-Owen company stated that Beverly Brown and Clarence Owen, owners of the company, had definitely decided to withdraw from the wholesale liquor business.

Departmental officials said that United States Attorney Blanton, at St. Louis, had neither objected to the compromise, nor recommended it.

Payment "Quasi-Penalty." Department officials explained that the $4000 payment agreed to by Brown-Owen attorneys was neither a fine nor a penalty. They said it was a "quasi-penalty" made possible by the internal revenue laws and regulations. They said it probably was arrived at by negotiation between Government officials and the attorneys. Last month it was reported that Brown and Owen had each offered to pay the Government $1000 for a compromise of the charges.

Under the new liquor law, the Department of Justice is authorized to compromise criminal indictments. Department officials emphasized that Brown-Owen had paid the Federal taxes.

They said that one of the factors persuading them to compromise the suit was the fact that Arkansas had repealed its dry laws and subsequently there was some doubt whether the court would levy a penalty as high as $4000.

Indicted Last March. Brown, Owen and William Molasky, officers of the Brown-Owen, Inc., one of the largest wholesale liquor firms in St. Louis, and William S. Jacobs of Hot Springs, Ark., were indicted last March by a Federal grand jury.

The indictment charged conspiracy to violate the laws of the United States, a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of two years in prison and fine of $10,000.

One of the counts of the indictment was the charge that, in 1934, there were discrepancies in the liquor firm's records.

A second count, charging shipment of liquor during 1934 into Arkansas, a dry state at the time of the alleged offense, was a misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum of six months in jail and a fine of $1000.

The corporation also was named a defendant. Eighteen overt acts were set forth in the indictment in support of the Government's contention that the defendants were in a conspiracy to violate the laws by shipping liquor into dry territory, and by failing to keep a true and complete set of records of the transactions of the firm.

Two Conspiracy Charges. Two allegations of conspiracy to keep false records were made. The first was that on the firm and its officers caused false names of persons to be entered to whom liquor was sold, and that a false report was made to the Internal Revenue Department. ## RAIN HOLDS UP ITALIAN ADVANCE TOWARD MAKALE

Temporary Halt Ordered
All Along the Line, to Al-

PATROLS ALMOST AT CITY'S GATE

Main Forces, After March Through Mud, Occupy Heights Commanding Rich Ethiopian Plain.

AT THE FRONT WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, Nov. 5.—Rains and the Italian high command's desire to keep its plan of advance intact have caused Italy's columns to bivouac temporarily, but the officers are confident they will sweep into Makale by Friday.
Officers in the advance position along the Agula-Mal Carei line said a "breathing spell" in the advance was especially advisable to allow the truck roads to catch up with the army. This need is felt especially by Gen. Alessandro Pirzio-Biroli's native troops of the central column which cut through "much more difficult territory" than the

Degias Gugga's troops—well advanced on the extreme left—were confident tonight that they would achieve their desire of entering Makale first. These advanced troops expected they would move into the town Thursday.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
ASMAR, Eritrea, Nov. 5.—A two-day halt in the advance of the Italian troops into Ethiopia was ordered all along the line today because of the rain and the need of building supply roads up to the present front.

During the intervening time, before the move southward is expected to begin again, the line will be straightened and communications improved to permit continuous contact between Italian columns.

The Italian troops, marching through mud and water, occupied the heights commanding the rich plain of Makale, immediate objective of the present drive.

The Alea of Makale, or the head Coptic priest, has already signified a willingness to surrender, Italian aviators said. They reported a large white flag was hoisted over the Alea's house, indicating the priests would welcome the Italian advance as had their colleagues at Asmara.

Artillery Moved Up.
Officers reported one battery of heavy artillery was already well forward on the front and was being followed by others, despite heavy rains and fog.

They said they had heard from Asmara that Dedjazmach (General)
Mohammed Jablo, sub-chief of the Ethiopian army concentrated north of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad, had revolted and signified his intention of joining the Italians.
Along the Setit River in the north, where the Italians experienced the most persistent resistance, 50 armed Ethiopians surrendered and furnished the Italian forces with "valuable information" regarding the enemy, it was said.

Mopping-Up Operation.
While the advance column had forged ahead within striking distance of the City of Makale, Gen.
Pietro Maravigna's right wing waded abruptly to the west to rid the region of any remaining Ethiopian forces. This mopping-up operation cleared out for Italy the last of the vast frontier region between the former Ethiopia-Eritrea border and the Takaze River, about 50 miles beyond the old frontier in the direction of Lake Tana.

Italian scouting planes returning from a flight ahead of the advancing troops reported that a body of Ethiopians estimated to number 3000 was moving north from Amba
Alagi, toward Makale, bearing a white flag and the Italian tricolor, presumably to join the Fascist forces.

An official communique announced occupation of the entire Ethiopian area south as far as the limits of Wogoro, beyond Dongolo, only some 15 miles from Makale.

Union of Columns Likely.
Italian officers said three columns of the advancing force, 120-000 strong, probably would be united in the treeless region about Agula, in the area 15 miles northeast of Makale, for the final push on that city.

Heading there were Gen. Mariot-ti's brigade of Danakil warriors, who took possession of Eastern

BOY WHO KILLED SISTER; THE VICTIM

FREDERICK JAMES.

DOROTHY JAMES.

DOROTHY JAMES.

Frederick James, 6, Pulls Trigger of Father's Shotgun, Which Was Not Supposed to Be Loaded.

Dorothy James, 12 years old, was accidentally shot and killed, and her chum, 14-year-old Mary Frances McNutt, was wounded when Dorothy's 6-year-old brother, Frederick, discharged their father's shotgun at the James home, 4127 Eichelberger street, last night.

Dorothy and Mary Frances, classmates at St. John the Baptist Parochial School, were seated on a bed in the front room at 6:40 o'clock, listening to the radio and talking.
Thelma James, 16, an invalid, was seated at the radio with her 3-year-old sister, Helen.

Frederick, called "Sonny Boy," not interested in the radio program or the conversation, investigated the 16-gauge shotgun standing in a corner of the room. He pulled the gun at the girls seated on the bed and pulled the trigger. A cartridge, which Alphonso James, the father, apparently forgot to remove, was discharged.

Dorothy, mortally wounded in the head, toppled off the bed. Mary Frances, her face hit by birdshot, ran screaming from the house. Mrs.
James, who had stopped to chat with a neighbor while on her way to church, heard the screams and hurried back home. The Rev. Benjamin Schuler, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church, was called and administered the last sacraments to the dying girl during the wait for an ambulance. She was dead when the ambulance reached City Hospital.

Mary Frances McNutt, daughter of Patrolman Ralston McNutt, 5041
Ray avenue, was able to return home following treatment of facial wounds.

James, a chauffeur, had left home to see a man about a traffic ticket he had received. He was driving on South Twelfth street when the ambulance bearing the wounded girls passed, but did not learn of the tragedy until he returned home. He told police he used the shotgun on a hunting trip Sunday, and on returning home, removed four shells, which, he believed, was all it contained.

Frederick, who has blonde hair, blue eyes and freckles, had not been told that his sister was dead this morning. He told how he had picked up the shotgun and pulled the trigger out of curiosity.

OFFICIAL TELLS HOW WARNERS GOT R-K-O PICTURES

clusive first-run privileges in the case of "features." The term "sold" has been employed frequently by lawyers and witnesses during the trial.

On cross-examination by the Government, Depinet declared that Arthur was not present in the Plaza Hotel suite when he talked with Leahy. It had been testified by Leahy last month that Arthur was there.

Several hundred dollars or possibly as much as $2000 was involved in the dispute over short subject film bills, Depinet related, denying that only a two-week supply was involved. Asked about the connection of Kops and Arthur in the St. Louis Theater, the witness replied: "It was never fully explained, but I got letters from both of them about the dealings."

Under renewed questioning about the commitment of films to Warners, Depinet said: "I took advantage of the opportunity to get a fine customer." He insisted that he had nothing against Arthur personally and would sell pictures to him "under the proper circumstances."

Depinet, 45 years old, a resident of New York, has been in the movie business for 28 years. He began as a ticket taker at the Dreamland Theater, New Orleans, in 1907, he related. When the theater owner moved a film exchange to New Orleans the next year, Depinet became office boy and shipping clerk. He joined the Consolidated Distributing Co. in 1911 and in 13 years worked up through the position of salesman, branch manager and general sales manager, residing in St. Louis six months and in Atlanta, Ga., Dallas, Tex., and elsewhere.

Then in 1924 Carl Laemmle employed him as Southern sales manager of Universal Pictures. The next year he took a similar job at an increased salary, with First National Pictures, where he became general manager of the following year and afterward vice-president in charge of sales. In 1931 he went to R-K-O-Pathé as vice-president and general sales manager, and since 1932 he has been president of the R-K-O Distributing Corporation, one of the major units of the industry.

Cresson Smith, a salesman for R-K-O, followed Depinet on the stand.

Query on Phone Calls Barred.
There was an interchange between Assistant Attorney-General Russell Hardy, the prosecutor, and Samuel W. Fordyce, counsel for one of the defendants, George J.
Schaefer of Paramount, when court opened. Fordyce asked Hardy whether the Government had been investigating outgoing telephone calls by Schaefer during a stay at the Roney Plaza Hotel, Miami, Fla., in February and March, 1934. Hardy said there had been an inquiry, but refused to tell the result.

Put on the stand as a witness by Fordyce, Hardy declared he did not know the result. Asked whether the findings would be put in evidence when available, the prosecutor said that depended on what they were. He pointed out that he was a sworn officer of the Government and not permitted by law to disclose confidential acts of agents of the Department of Justice. A purported list of Schaefer's calls from the hotel was offered by Fordyce but was ruled out by the Judge on Hardy's objection.

The defense had contended that Schaefer was in Miami at a time when Arthur was represented as talking with him in New York.

Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. one of the defendants, was absent today, having been called to Youngstown,
O., Sunday because of the death of his father.

FRUIT PEDDLER PUSHING CART KILLED BY AUTO

Driver Says Lights of Truck Parked on Wrong Side of Street Kept Him From Seeing.

Joe Bommarito, 56-year-old fruit peddler, 1637 North Eighteenth street, died of a fractured skull at City Hospital at 6:15 a. m. today, less than an hour after he was struck by an automobile at 1420 Cass avenue.

Bommarito, who was pushing his cart east on the south side of Cass avenue, was struck by a machine, also traveling east, driven by Edward Cannon, 31, of 2635 Rauschen-bach avenue. The driver told police that the headlights of a truck, parked on the wrong side of the street, facing him, had blinded his vision and that he did not see Bommarito.

standing in the street while he went to assist Bommarito, another machine, driven by Samuel Kram, 5715 St. Louis avenue, crashed into his car. The driver of the parked truck, Stanley Matyschak, 2204 Benton street, was ordered held for the coroner's jury.

Twenty-three persons were injured in 28 automobile accidents in the city during the 24 hours ending at 4 a. m. today.

William Reese, 9 years old, 1025 Park avenue, suffered a skull injury when he was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Margaret Ramsey, a school teacher, of Webster Groves, at Olive and Thirteenth streets at 5:30 p. m. yesterday. The boy, who had been at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. with a group, ran into the street in the path of the automobile, witnesses reported.

The Cigarette Girl in Memphis Tragedy

MISS LUCILLE UNDERWOOD.

GIRL SAYS SHE TRIED TO GET ADMIRER TO RETURN TO WIFE

Again Denies Part in Separation
Which Resulted in Woman Killing Husband.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Miss Lucille Underwood, 19-year-old cigarette girl at a hotel night club, repeated yesterday that she had nothing to do with the separation of Brenton Root, 32 years old, and his wife, Daisy, 30, who is in jail charged with the murder of her husband.

She told interviewers, "I never told Brett that I loved him," and "he must have been infatuated with me. I had no affair with him," she said. "He loved me too much for that. He wanted to marry me.
He said he would get a divorce. I tried to get him to return to his wife."

Sheriff W. J. Bacon granted Mrs.
Root permission to attend her husband's funeral. The Rev. Benjamin F. Root, Chicago clergyman, visited Mrs. Root, his daughter-in-law, in jail and said he wanted her to sit with him at the funeral. He said he wanted to "take care of her after she gets out of this trouble."

Four-year-old George Root, her son, played happily at the home of his mother's friends, unaware of the tragedy.

Mrs. Berroyer's Direct Testimony; She Wasn't in Room When Baby Came, But Looked Through Door

Strange Man at Bedside With Dr. Muench
Who Finally Announced 'It's a Baby Boy,' She Says.

Mrs. Helen Berroyer, who has been silent about the Muench baby case since her name was brought into the case Sept. 20, took the witness stand in St. Louis Court of Appeals at 4:30 p. m. yesterday to testify in her own behalf in Anna Ware's habeas corpus suit for custody of the 11-week-old baby which had been in the Muench home until the Court took charge of it last Wednesday.

Mrs. Berroyer was the only one of the four respondents in the suit who had not been called to the witness stand by the petitioner.

Mrs. Berroyer, who has been in attendance daily at hearings in the case since Oct. 15, testified in a deliberate manner. She wore a brown dress, a figured silk waist, and a brown felt hat, turned up on the left side.

Preliminary Questions.

In answer to preliminary questions by her lawyer, Harry N. Soffer, she testified that she resided at 5559 Pershing avenue with her son, William, and her mother, Mrs. Mayme Hawker Meyers.

On the night of Aug. 17 (when Anna Ware's baby was taken from her) she was in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Muench at 4736 Westminster place, she testified. She said that Mrs. Muench telephoned her between 9 and 9:30, said she was alone and asked her to come over.

She had known Mrs. Muench, she testified, about a year and a half, perhaps longer. She explained that Dr. Muench had treated her mother for arthritis, and that she met Mrs. Muench when the latter visited her mother, Mrs. Meyers, whom Mrs. Muench had known about 12 years. Mrs. Meyers describes herself as a student of applied psychology, with a large clientele seeking her advice on various matters, and she also has told fortunes.

"Mrs. Muench let me in and we went into the living room," Mrs. Berroyer continued. "She was complaining. We sat there and talked. There was quite a bit of conversation—I should say three-quarters of an hour or an hour. She seemed to be suffering a great deal."

"I tried to soothe the lady. I said I didn't think anything was the matter—it wasn't time. She seemed to be feeling quite badly and I suggested that we go upstairs and that she lie down. So we went up, and I helped her take off her clothes. She went to the telephone and put through several calls.

"She asked me to call the Baptist or the Missouri Baptist Hospital—I don't remember which—for Dr. Muench. I asked for him but he wasn't there. I don't know how many calls she made."

Mrs. Berroyer told of leaving the room for a moment and said that when she returned Mrs. Muench told her she was feeling very badly and that the doctor was coming.

Mrs. Muench then left the room for a moment, Mrs. Berroyer continued. "When she came back," the witness said, "she was white as a sheet. Perspiration stood out on her forehead. She said, 'Helen, I'm positive.'"

"I said, 'Come on in and lie down.' She went in and lay down and I think it was along about then that my mother telephoned the house. I told her, 'No, I'm not coming home. She is alone and I am going to stay till Doctor comes.'"

"How long was it that you sat in the bedroom?"

"I couldn't say for sure, perhaps a quarter of an hour, perhaps half an hour, or it might have been longer. After she came out of the bathroom I was going down to get some ice water and I was thinking of getting some stimulant."

"As I was going down the stairs, Doctor came up and I said, 'Doctor, she's very sick,' and I went through the pantry into the kitchen and got some ice water, and to be truthful, I stopped to get a drink of whisky."

"Another Gentleman."

"I must have been there for five or 10 minutes. As I came out of the pantry another gentleman was going up the stairs. He was carrying a case I judged to be a doctor's case."

"What kind of a looking man was he, tall or small?"

"Small, about five feet seven, or eight, I would say. I stood there

FREDERICK VAN NESS PERSON

LEAVING the Federal building in New York after being arraigned. He was indicted in Chicago and Kansas City in connection with an alleged $400,000 fraud scheme, and surrendered after a two-year search. Person is handcuffed to Frederick A. Tuttle (in foreground), formerly assistant chief inspector of immigration, who is under a two-year sentence for conspiracy to violate the immigration laws.

for a minute, thankful to see someone, and I watched him go up the steps. I don't know how long it was, but a few minutes afterward I went up. When I reached the top of the steps I stood in the hallway, where I could see into Mrs. Muench's room.

"Dr. Muench and the other gentleman both were leaning over Mrs. Muench. I realized that there was something very wrong and I just stood there in the doorway, looking into Mrs. Muench's room. I did not go into the room."

"What was Mrs. Muench doing?"

"Mrs. Muench was doing what I would call a clamor and screaming."

"Do you know where Dr. Muench was, with reference to the bed?"

"Both men were on the same side. I stood there. I didn't know what to do. Dr. Muench knew I was there. If he wanted me he could call."

"Did you have any conversation with Dr. Muench?"

"Well, he made a trip or two from the bedroom to the bathroom and on one of them he stopped and said, 'We have a baby boy, or it's a baby boy. I don't remember which.'"

"How many trips did Dr. Muench make to the bathroom while you were standing in the hall outside the bedroom?"

"Dr. Muench passed me two or three times, going into and out of the bathroom."

"Did you ever enter the bedroom that evening?"

"No."

"I Was Very Much Surprised."

"After Dr. Muench told you, 'We have a baby boy,' or, 'It's a baby boy,' what did you do?"

"I was very much surprised."

"Did you go downstairs?"

"No. I stood there for awhile, then I went down the steps to the main hall."

"How long were you down there?"

"I don't know."

"Did you see anyone else down there?"

"Eventually I saw Mary (Willie) Mary Cobb, Negro maid. She went upstairs, then I left. It was obvious I wasn't needed or wanted."

"What time did you get home?"

"About 1 a. m., perhaps a few minutes before or after."

"Were you out of the Muench house from the time you arrived there until you started for home?"

"No."

Mrs. Berroyer testified she first met Wilfred Jones "a week or two weeks ago—the day before he came into this court." Asked to state the circumstances of that meeting, she answered:

"A telephone call came through. He said he was Wilfred Jones and he would like to meet my attorney at my home or at any place I would designate. I said, 'Certainly, come to my house.' I didn't call my lawyer, Mr. Soffer, because I thought it was a joke. There have been about 17 Wilfred Joneses call me up. He came over and I said my attorney was not present and he left."

"Had you met him prior to that time?"

"No, sir."

Denies She Was at Hospital.

"Were you with him at Jewish Hospital on the night of July 11?"

"I was not."

Two witnesses, a head nurse and an interne, have identified Mrs. Berroyer in court as the woman, who, with Jones took the Price baby to the Jewish Hospital on the night of July 11. This baby, which Jones obtained from its unwed mother and took to the Muench home, died July 16 at the Jewish Hospital. A handwriting expert has testified that the signature "Helen Meyers," signed by the woman who took the Price baby to the Jewish Hospital, was in the same handwriting as the admitted writing of Mrs. Berroyer.

Counsel asked where Mrs. Berroyer had been on the night of July 11 and she replied that she was at home, entertaining a guest.

"Who was it?" "Harold Meyers, and my mother and my son were present. I expect the maid was there, too, as it was early, but I am not sure about that."

Mrs. Berroyer added, in response to another question, that about 8 o'clock that night she had received a telephone call from a man whose mother had been operated on in a hospital. She was not asked for names.

"Did you at any time handle any babies between July 11 and Aug. 18 or up to the filing of this suit, or did you have any babies under your custody or control?" the attorney asked.

"No, sir," she answered.

"You saw the baby in the Muench home?"

"Yes, sir."

"You just looked at it?"

"Yes, sir."

These questions and answers referred to occasions subsequent to the time Mrs. Berroyer left the Muench home about 1 a. m. Aug. 18. It appeared from her subsequent testimony that she saw the baby in the Muench home for the first time on the afternoon of Aug. 18 when she accompanied Dr. Marsh Pitzman, friend of Mrs. Muench, to the house on Westminster place.

"Did you ever have the Ware baby in your custody or control?"

"No, sir."

The witness said she had never heard of the Price baby until a newspaper reporter, Charles Marsalek of the Post-Dispatch, asked her about it.

When the habeas corpus suit was filed, she said, she was out of town. Several days after a writ of habeas corpus was left at her home, she said, she telephoned her mother from Peoria to tell her that she intended to go to Denver, but when informed of the suit, she came back to St. Louis.

Mrs. Berroyer's counsel then asked several questions through which he hoped to show that the fact that Mrs. Berroyer and Mrs. Muench usually arrived together at sessions of the trial was a coincidence. The witness said it was true that on occasions she had ridden in the same courthouse elevator with Mrs. Muench, but said the elevators were crowded. She had carried the baby's bag into the courtroom when Mrs. Muench took the baby to court, she said, but added "Somebody had to pick it up."

Her attorney asked Mrs. Berroyer for cross-examination.

Anna Ware's attorney, Harry C. Barker, asked the witness to write "Helen Berroyer" and "Helen Meyers" alternately five times each.

Mrs. Berroyer went to the counsel table to do the writing.

Barker then asked Mrs. Berroyer to write this sentence:

"I hereby swear that I did not take the Price baby to the Jewish Hospital on or about July 11, 1935, or at any other time."

Her lawyer objected, saying she had already testified under oath as to this matter, but the Commissioner admitted the request, as a means of getting a further sample of handwriting. She wrote the words as dictated, then, as the questioner's direction, signed "Helen Berroyer."

She then, at Barker's direction, wrote the names "Helen Berroyer," "Helen Meyers" and "Helen Anderson," the last her own maiden name, with two pens and with a medium soft pencil.

Samples of Handwriting.

The witness was required to give samples of her signature while she was sitting and while standing, with pencil and with pen. All the specimens were submitted in evidence.

She had stated that she did not recall whether she was sitting or standing when she signed the clothing receipt at the time her son was admitted to Jewish Hospital.

Book on Care of Children.

Under cross-examination she testified that she first suspected Mrs. Muench was an expectant mother when the latter asked her to get a book on the care and feeding of children. This was last spring, she said, and later Mrs. Muench told her she was to become a mother.

Asked whether she had judged, from what Dr. Muench said to her in the hallway the night of Aug. 17-18 that Mrs. Muench had had a child, she replied, "That was the impression I received."

She had never heard Dr. and Mrs. Muench discuss why the mysterious man in their home with Dr. Muench on the night of the reported birth could not be produced as a witness, she said. Asked by the Commissioner if it had ever occurred to her "that it might relieve us if this man would come in and testify?" she replied, "Yes, it has."

In this connection she testified that on one occasion she asked Dr. Muench who the man was and he replied, "Helen, I would rather not answer; everyone present and friends of the household seem to let themselves in for a lot of comment, and I hope you have not told anyone you were here."

The witness testified she had never asked Mrs. Muench about the identity of the mysterious stranger and had never discussed with her the question of getting him for a witness in the habeas corpus suit proceeding.

To a question by Anna Ware's counsel whether Mrs. Muench used narcotics, she replied, "No, not that I know of." As for drinking, she said, "No, she doesn't drink at all. She is unable to drink and never does."

Asked whether she thought Mrs. Muench was sane, she replied, "In my opinion, I would say she is sane."

While Mrs. Berroyer was still on the witness stand under cross-examination, Court was adjourned at 6:05 p. m. until 9 o'clock this morning.

MURAL, 'PAGEANT OF BEAUTY,' SHOWN AT VANDERVOORT'S

Work, With 14 Panels, Will Be on Display at Store for Week.

"A Pageant of Beauty," a mural by Clara Fargo Thomas, which made its first appearance in London in connection with King George's Jubilee Trust Fund, was presented in preview yesterday afternoon at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, sponsored by a group of prominent St. Louis men and women.

The mural, made up of 14 panels of cream-colored holly wood, is 70 feet long and depicts the search for beauty which women have made through the ages. Outstanding historical figures are shown beginning with the Egyptian Queen Nefertiti, continuing with Kukaichi of China, Mumtaz Mahal of India, and closing with Madame Pompadour and modern athletic women. In the last panel the presence of a silk opera hat and jewels hints at the ultimate reward in the quest.

The painting is stylized and is done in tempera with clear red and black predominating. The lack of color modeling in the figures is relieved by curving lines in draperies and the entire work is handled deftly with strict attention paid to detail based on the findings of research.

The mural, which is the property of Elizabeth Arden of New York, will be on exhibit during the entire week. Madame Ball will lecture on the panels during the exhibit.

CHILD UPSETS KETTLE, SCALDED

Boy, 5, Seriously Injured In Accident at Home.

Edward Simmons, 5 years old, was scalded on the face and legs when he accidentally upset a kettle of hot water at his home, 1511 South Eleventh street, this morning.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Simmons, climbed on a chair to reach matches on a shelf, and overturned the kettle of water on the kitchen range. He is in serious condition at City Hospital.

12,000,000-YEAR-OLD BONES

Skeleton of Astrapotherium Magnum Assembled at Chicago Museum.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Science has assembled the skeleton of the astrapotherium magnum, a mammal with habits similar to those of the hippopotamus, which lived in South America 12,000,000 years ago, the Field Museum has announced.

The first paper describing the astrapotherium—which was 5 feet tall, 9½ feet long and equipped with tusks like those of a wild boar—was published yesterday by Ekmer S. Riggs, associate curator of paleontology at the museum. The specimen described was exhibited there.

Man Shot in Row With Wife Dies.

BARTLESVILLE, Ok., Nov. 5.—Frank Labadie, Osage County rancher, died last night of wounds suffered Sunday in what officials said was a scuffle with his wife for possession of a revolver. Officers said Mrs. Labadie protested when her husband started to enter the home of her grandmother while carrying the weapon. Labadie was shot in the right side.

CENSUS INDEX FORCE BEING HIRED IN CITY

150 "White Collar" Workers on Project at Old Federal Building.

More than 150 "white collar" workers from the St. Louis and St. Louis County relief rolls were employed yesterday at the old Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets, for the Government's work of compiling a card index of the 1930 census. Tomorrow, 160 additional workers will be employed, and another group of the same number expected to begin work Friday.

The increase in the indexing personnel was made possible by the removal of practically all Government offices to the new Federal Building, Twelfth boulevard and Market street, providing additional space for the work. C. J. Shon, personnel director of the Census Bureau, said he expected 220 clerks to be working by Dec. 1, and that the full force of 3000 workers would be employed by Jan. 1.

The card index is being made to aid in determining the eligibility of applicants for old-age pensions under the Social Security Act. More than 80,000,000 names will be listed from the 2831 census volumes. 65 and 85 Cents an Hour.

Those obtaining jobs on the project have previously passed examinations at the Hadley Vocational School. ## CENSUS INDEX FORCE BEING HIRED IN CITY

150 "White Collar" Workers on Project at Old Federal Building.

More than 150 "white collar" workers from the St. Louis and St. Louis County relief rolls were employed yesterday at the old Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets, for the Government's work of compiling a card index of the 1900 census. Tomorrow, 160 additional workers will be employed, and another group of the same number is expected to begin work Friday.

The increase in the indexing personnel was made possible by the removal of practically all Government offices to the new Federal Building, Twelfth boulevard and Market street, providing additional space for the work. C. J. Short, personnel director of the Census Bureau, said he expected 2200 clerks to be working by Dec. 1, and that the full force of 3000 workers would be employed by Jan. 1.

The card index is being made to aid in determining the eligibility of applicants for old-age pensions under the Social Security Act. More than 80,000,000 names will be listed from the 1900 census volumes.

Government office on the fourth floor, where other long rows of desks have been built.

Most of the workers have had some experience in clerical work. The new group being hired this week includes about 90 Negroes. Men outnumber the women about three to one.

Two sets of index cards are being made from the heavy, ledger-size record books; one for the family groups and one for each individual recorded in 1900. One set contains the name of the head of the family, the relationship of all members and servants and roomers in each house. The individual cards show color, sex, month and year of birth, birthplace, citizenship and place of residence. Separate cards are being made for all members of the Army and Navy in the service at that time. The first group of 100 clerks, working since Oct. 1, have completed the indexing of 71 volumes.

Records Not Made Public.

Great care is taken in the handling of the records, as they are not available for public use until they are 40 years old. The clerks have been required to agree not to make known the contents of the books. From the vaults of the Census Bureau in Washington, the records were sent here by registered mail in specially provided steel, fireproof railroad cars.

Special workers have also been provided to store the index cards, which are arriving from the Federal printing office in Washington at the rate of about 1,000,000 a day. These workers are also charged with locking the records in the large vaults in the building each night, and taking them to the workers in the morning.

The work, which is in charge of Gerald Ryan of the Census Bureau, is expected to be completed by next June 30, at a cost of approximately $2,000,000.

SAVED FROM LIFE TERM GETS 10 YEARS FOR ROBBERY

Escaped Convict, Whose Conviction as Habitual Criminal Was Reversed, Pleads Guilty.

George Christup, 34-year-old robber and escaped convict who was saved from a life sentence in the penitentiary when the Missouri Supreme Court granted him a new trial on a technicality, pleaded guilty of robbery before Circuit Judge Williams yesterday and was given a 10-year sentence.

Christup had been tried for robbery under the habitual criminal act and been found guilty by a jury in April, 1933, and his sentence fixed at life imprisonment. He admitted on the stand during the trial that he had escaped from the Colorado State prison at Canon City where he had been serving a sentence for robbery.

The Missouri Supreme Court upheld his appeal for a new trial on the ground that the Habitual Criminal Act applied only to convicts who had been discharged or paroled from prison. The law says nothing about escaped convicts.

Christup robbed the proprietor of the Sturgis Drug Co. Tower Grove and Lafayette avenues, Dec. 27, 1932, getting $96. He was arrested the following day when the proprietor saw him getting into a taxicab. After his arrest he told police of five other store robberies he had committed.

DIES AT WHEEL OF AUTO; WIFE INJURED IN CRASH

Hyman Snitzer Succumbs Apparently of Heart Disease; Autopsy to Be Performed.

Apparently stricken with heart disease, Hyman Snitzer, 43 years old, 1398 Clara avenue, died at the wheel of his automobile last night.

The machine jumped the curb and hit a street light standard in front of 3501 Easton avenue, injuring Mrs. Snitzer, who was in the front seat of the car with her husband. Max Goldberg, 5722 Wells avenue, a passenger in the automobile, was not hurt.

Police were called and used an inhalator at the scene in an effort to revive Snitzer, who later was pronounced dead at City Hospital. Mrs. Snitzer was treated for a fractured ankle and cuts of the face. An autopsy will be performed on Snitzer's body.

SCHOOL HEAD ASKED TO QUIT OVER KILLING OF STUDENT

C. F. McClure, Superintendent at La Tour, Mo., Insists Halloween Shooting Was Accident.

LA TOUR, Mo., Nov. 5.—The La Tour School Board last night demanded the resignation of Superintendent Charles F. McClure because of the Halloween killing of one of his students.

"I don't know what I am going to do," said McClure, who is under a manslaughter charge for the death of Glenn Aldridge, 19 years old, a high school student.

McClure insists Aldridge was shot accidentally when the superintendent and Clarence Hey, 23, principal of the school, tried to frighten Halloween pranksters.

Hey resigned after the board voted unanimously to ask him and McClure to quit "for the good of the school, the community and the teachers."

Wallace Cooper, prosecuting attorney, said that investigation led him to the decision to change the charges against McClure to first degree murder. The alteration will be made "probably within a day or two," he said.

MUENCHES PUT ON THEIR CASE; MOST OF IT IS HEARSAY

General Effect Is That Respondent Said She Was Going to Have Baby and Story Was Believed.

NEGRO EMPLOYEES AMONG WITNESSES

Hair Dresser and Handy Man Give Their Opinions as Do White Paper Hanger and Garage Man.

Sixteen witnesses called by Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muech and her husband Dr. Ludwig O. Muech, testified for nearly four hours yesterday in St. Louis Court of Appeals as the Muechses, neither of whom was in court, began their response to the habeas corpus suit in which Anna Ware is attempting to regain custody of her 11-week-old baby.

At the morning session the Muechses presented eight witnesses, six of them Negroes employed by Mrs. Muech in various capacities, and the seventh a paper-hanger who fixed a nursery at the Muech home. In the afternoon five persons with whom Mrs. Muech had had business dealings, and three attorneys who have figured in the case were witnesses.

Testimony that Mrs. Muech had told them she expected a child and that from her appearance they believed that she was an expectant mother was given by Mrs. Pearl Robinson, a Negro beauty operator, 4003 Enright avenue; Laura Moore, a Negro seamstress, 4356 Cook avenue; Genevieve Jackson, Negro laundress for the Muechses; Rufus Thompson, Negro waiter who did some painting in the Muech home last summer; Robert Denzie and Henry Moore, Negroes employed by the Muechses as butler and chauffeur, the paper-hanger, Edward Cornish, 1481 Seventeenth avenue, Wellston, who decorated a third-floor room at the Muech home for use as a nursery last July.

Mrs. Theodore M. Wall, rental manager of an apartment at 5374 Delmar boulevard, testified that last May Mrs. Muech talked with her about taking an apartment there and mentioned that she expected a child in August or September. Mrs. Wall said she paid no particular attention to Mrs. Muech's appearance then.

Harry Barth, partner in the Westminster garage at 439 North Euclid avenue, where the Muechses kept two cars, testified that last July 17 when he went to the Muech home to collect the monthly bill Mrs. Muech appeared to him to be an expectant mother. She was wearing a kimono at the time.

Frank Levi, formerly a salesman for a downtown furniture store and now manager of one of its branches, testified that he sold Mrs. Muech a crib and other furniture for a child's room in July. Mrs. Loretta M. Clark, saleswoman in a department store, testified that in late June she sold Mrs. Muech a layette of good quality. Neither had noted the appearance of Mrs. Muech at the time of the transactions.

C. L. Jaekel, assistant manager of a drug store at 401 North Euclid avenue, testified that during the five months he has been at that store he had sold no hair dye to Mrs. Muech. Charles Davis, manager of the store, who testified Oct. 18 that he had sold Mrs. Muech hair dye "more than once" was recalled and asked to fix the time of these sales. He said he had not sold her any for several months. On cross-examination he said that he had sold Mrs. Muech hair dye, at intervals over a 10-year period.

Dr. Pitzman's Attorney.
E. Glion Curtis, attorney for Dr. Marsh Pitzman, who testified earlier in the proceeding, was called as a witness by Muech counsel, who said he had a subpoena for Dr. Pitzman and wanted to know the present whereabouts of the physician. Curtis said Dr. Pitzman was not in Missouri.

"I don't see how that would help you," Commissioner Limbaugh said to Edgar J. Keating, attorney for the Muechses.

"I just want the record to show that he has left the State," Keating said.

"And let the record also show," said Harry C. Barker, attorney for Anna Ware, "that Dr. Pitzman came in here voluntarily, without subpoena, that he testified and was subjected to cross-examination and left the witness stand without hindrance from the respondents."

Ex-Judge Bond on Stand.
Former Circuit Judge Thomas Bond, who represented Anna Ware originally in the habeas corpus action, but subsequently withdrew and was replaced by Barker, testified that he was called one day by Cobbs & Logan, attorneys for the Star-Times, and took over the case when members of the law firm told him they did not want to handle it.

He enumerated various occasions on which he talked to Anna Ware, and mentioned a Star-Times reporter as being present at most of the meetings. The Court sustained an objection by Barker to a question whether he (Bond) had prepared a motion asking for a physical examination of Mrs. Muech, and to a question whether Anna Ware had declined to sign it, holding that this was part of Bond's confidential relationship with his client.

Asked if he got a fee from the Star-Times, he replied, "only by hearsay," that he had got a check from the paper's lawyer, Thomas H. Cobbs, who said it was from the Star-Times.

Phone Call From Mrs. Muech.
Under further questioning by Muech counsel, he testified that Mrs. Muech called him on the telephone while he was in the case and offered to submit herself to a physical examination by a commission of physicians, and also offered to allow Anna Ware to look at the baby in her home, in the presence of Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan and an attorney for the Muechses, also "perhaps someone else."

"I felt," he continued, "that I was not in a position to accept her offer, as she was represented by counsel. I asked her for the name of her lawyer, and she said it was Paul Dillon. I called Mr. Dillon but could not get to a definite conclusion with him. He expressed no interest in going on with it."

"Did you ever talk to Anna Ware about Mrs. Muech's offer?" counsel for the Muechses asked. "I may have."

"Is it not a fact that she refused to look at the baby?" "Oh, no, not to me. She was always very anxious to see the baby. She felt that she could identify it."

"Well, why didn't you do it?" "I did not think it the proper course, as she was represented by counsel," the witness replied.

An objection to a question as to why he withdrew from the case was sustained by the Court as touching upon confidential relationship.

"Did you receive any information that made you feel you were not ethically able to go forward with the case?" counsel for the Muechses asked. "No, I did not."

During the examination Barker introduced into the record a copy of a letter written by Bond to the Muechses, and a receipt showing it was delivered as a registered letter. It was not read. There was no cross-examination.

William L. Berthold Called.
William L. Berthold, lawyer, was called to testify to the fact that he was employed to represent Mary Ware, sister of Anna Ware, at the time when Mary, upon arrival in St. Louis from her Pennsylvania home, was trying to get in touch with her sister, and before the filing of the pending habeas corpus proceedings. Mary, married since her coming here Sept. 18, is now Mrs. Robert Whitlock.

Berthold said he was employed through Prosecuting Attorney C. Arthur Anderson of St. Louis County to represent Mary Ware, and that Thomas Bond was engaged to represent Anna Ware. He said his fee, $1000, was paid by the Post-Dispatch. He understood Bond was paid by the Star-Times.

He told of the conference held at Anderson's office, attended by the Ware sisters, Prosecutor Anderson and Associate Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe, Bond and Berthold. Several conferences were held, he said, and he was aware of an offer made to Anna Ware by Mrs. Muech, to permit Anna to view the baby in the Muech home.

Berthold was asked whether he knew of any motion being prepared for a court order requiring Mrs. Muech to submit to a physical examination. He said such a motion was prepared.

Questions Ruled Out.
Questions as to what was done with the motion were ruled out by the Commissioner, on Barker's objection that the question involved privileged communications between the lawyer and his client.

As has been told, Berthold withdrew from the case Oct. 2, giving as one of his reasons that Mary Ware and her sister Anna had refused to follow the advice of himself and Judge Bond, Sept. 26, when they desired them to sign an application for a court order for physical examination of Mrs. Muech. Their refusal came after the sisters had consulted Harry T. Brundidge of the Star-Times staff.

This refusal by the sisters, Berthold said, was a violation of the agreement they entered into at the conference in Anderson's office to abide by the advice of counsel in the habeas corpus proceeding which was decided on at that conference. Berthold also was told by the Star-Times man that the sisters would be permitted to sign the motion for examination of Mrs. Muech if the Post-Dispatch would arrange for the Star-Times to get an interview with Dr. Marsh Pitzman, such as the Post-Dispatch had already published. This proposal was declined.

Berthold was asked whether he had conferred with Anna Ware except in the presence of Brundidge, and said he had done so. He was asked whether he had requested Anna to sign an affidavit describing her baby.

An objection by Barker to this question, on the ground of confidential communication, was sustained. Answering another question, Berthold said that so far as he knew, no such affidavit was prepared.

Berthold was asked, as Bond had been, whether he, while counsel in the case, had learned anything which made him feel that he could not ethically continue with it. He replied, as Bond had, that he had not.

Cross-Examination by Jones.
Wilfred Jones cross-examined Berthold. He asked what information Berthold had to indicate that Jones had any control over the custody of the infant in the Muech home. Berthold said he had information that Jones was the principal mover in bringing Anna Ware to St. Louis to have her child, "in order that your client might adopt it."

Asked what caused him to believe Anna Ware's child was in the Muech home, he said he believed it was because of the information that Jones had given him.

Berthold also was told by the Star-Times man that the sisters would be permitted to sign the motion for examination of Mrs. Muech if the Post-Dispatch would arrange for the Star-Times to get an interview with Dr. Marsh Pitzman, such as the Post-Dispatch had already published. This proposal was declined.

Berthold was asked whether he had conferred with Anna Ware except in the presence of Brundidge, and said he had done so. He was asked whether he had requested Anna to sign an affidavit describing her baby.

An objection by Barker to this question, on the ground of confidential communication, was sustained. Answering another question, Berthold said that so far as he knew, no such affidavit was prepared.

Berthold was asked, as Bond had been, whether he, while counsel in the case, had learned anything which made him feel that he could not ethically continue with it. He replied, as Bond had, that he had not.

Cross-Examination by Jones.
Wilfred Jones cross-examined Berthold. He asked what information Berthold had to indicate that Jones had any control over the custody of the infant in the Muech home. Berthold said he had information that Jones was the principal mover in bringing Anna Ware to St. Louis to have her child, "in order that your client might adopt it."

Asked what caused him to believe Anna Ware's child was in the Muech home, he said he believed it was because of the information that Jones had given him.

Delicious Honey Krushed Wheat Bread an Aid to Regularity.

The amazing popularity of Honey Krushed Wheat Bread is due to its delicious, "different" nut-like flavor and to the fact that—when eaten regularly—it actually helps prevent constipation.

Baked by an exclusive, scientific process, Honey Krushed Wheat Bread contains pure honey, the whole wheat kernel and other ingredients that aid the system in maintaining normal, regular elimination.

Honey Krushed Wheat Bread is especially recommended for children and those persons who want to break the "pill-taking" habit.

TASTES SO GOOD—DOES SO MUCH!
Don't confuse Honey Krushed Wheat Bread with so-called medicinal breads. It is a richly flavored delicacy that—besides tasting so good—does so much to keep you feeling "fit-as-a-fiddle."

Honey Krushed Wheat Bread is delivered over-fresh daily to hundreds of independent grocers. Be sure you get the genuine—don't accept a substitute.

Muech home, Berthold replied. "The weight of circumstantial evidence," Jones asked whether Berthold had been in contact with any witness who knew anything about Anna Ware's child being taken to the Muech home, and the witness said he did not.

Mrs. Helen Berroyer's lawyer cross-examined Berthold, asking why Mrs. Berroyer was made a respondent in the present suit. Berthold said it was on information that she was present at the Muech home at the time of the reported birth, also that she was "an almost constant visitor" at the Muech home.

BEFORE you take any preparation, you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia; ask your family doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians. Some, as bad for the stomach. And others; more pertinently; as bad for the heart.

As a result; the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice, throughout the world, in the treatment of common pains, headaches and colds. For chiefly on doctors' advice, millions of people changed from old time remedies to Bayer Aspirin.

Now, time has proved conclusively,—by countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin regularly, year in and year out, without ill effect—that the medical findings of that day about its safety and effectiveness were correct.

Keep this point about Bayer Aspirin in mind. Both in your own interest and in the interest of your family.

Scientists rate Genuine Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches, rheumatic and neuralgia pains. And they rate it safe for the average person to take regularly.

Your own doctor, we are sure, will agree with what we say about the speedy action and safety of Bayer Aspirin. And your own experience, once you try it, will emphasize and verify it.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store for only 15¢ a box—its new low price—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone; but by always saying "Bayer Aspirin" when you buy.

TSINAN, Shantung, China, Nov. 5.—Nearly a year has passed since baby Helen Priscilla Stam was orphaned by the murder of her parents, missionaries, by Chinese Communists, but the youngster is being showered with gifts by friends and sympathizers in United States.

On her first birthday, Sept. 25, which she celebrated at the home of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Scott, here, she received many gifts, most of them from individuals, but several from church organizations.

The Methodist Sunday School, Hutchinson, Kan., sent her two dresses.

Helen is 31 inches in height, weighs 22½ pounds and has four teeth. She is learning to walk. Her vocabulary so far is limited, however, to the one word, "good-by."

Helen Priscilla Stam was saved from death after she and her parents had been captured by a band of Chinese at a mission station in Anhwei Province. The parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, were executed by their captors, but the youngster was spared. She was found crying and hungry, in a deserted shack.

ETRUSCAN, ART AT MUSEUM HERE GENUINE, DIRECTOR SAYS

Collection, Valued at $14,500, Well Authenticated, Meyric Rogers Declares.

Meyric R. Rogers, director of City Art Museum, commenting on a news dispatch yesterday in which Dr. David M. Robinson, archaeologist at Johns Hopkins University, expressed the opinion that nearly half of the Etruscan art in the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh was fraudulent, said the art of that period at the St. Louis museum had been well authenticated by scientists.

The museum here, Rogers said, had about 20 examples attributed to the Etruscan period, including small bronze objects and gold jewelry. The collection was carried on the museum's books at a valuation of $14,500, he said.

The line of demarcation between Etruscan, early Roman, and Greco-Roman cultures was difficult to trace, Rogers said. For that reason, he added, it might be a matter for learned debate whether some of the examples which the museum attributed to the Etruscan period might not be otherwise classified, but there was no doubt as to their antiquity.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN DUNN TO DIVIDE AFRICAN ESTATES

Adventurer Got Land for Aiding British in Zulu Rebellion of 1879.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Nov. 5.—Descendants of John Dunn met today with a native commissioner at Mtunzini to divide the large estates granted to the English adventurer for his assistance to the British in the Zulu rebellion of 1879.

The land first came to Dunn after the Battle of Ulundi, which ended in a decisive victory for the English. He received grants together with 11 Zulu chiefs and a Basuto chief. Dunn adopted the customs of the natives, chief of which are polygamy and exchange of cattle at marriages, and had approximately 40 wives at one time. Seventy-nine of his children are now reported to be living.

The Natal government allotted 10,000 additional acres to the family shortly after Dunn's death.

Some of his children adopted European standards. Their claims as his descendants for apportionment of his property were finally recognized by the Natal officials, who are in direct control of the country. It was decided to convey grants of 100 acres to each genuine descendant. The Union Parliament approved the proposal. The session today is expected to work out a final plan for disposal of the property.

STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE TO GET CHECK FOR $28,654

Funds Withheld Since Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen Assessed Employees on Democratic Debt.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen, director of the Missouri Employment Service, announced yesterday she had been notified that a Federal check for $28,654 had been mailed her.

Funds for financing the State employment service had been withheld since last July by W. Frank Persons, Director of the United States Employment Service, because of a controversy growing out of a "mistaken letter" incident.

Mrs. Cruzen aroused the ire of United States Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri, and James P. Aylward, chairman of the Missouri Democratic State Committee, because she assessed employees of the national re-employment office in St. Louis one per cent of their June salaries to help pay the Democratic national committee's debt, although she did not assume charge of that office until July 1. Mrs. Cruzen explained that the letter was sent "by mistake."

During the controversy, Gov. Park reappointed Mrs. Cruzen as State Labor Commissioner.

SEIZED AS GIRL'S ASSAILANT

Chicago Man Held; Signet Ring and Scratched Face Clews.

CHICAGO Nov. 5.—An onyx signet ring and a scratch on his face caused the arrest last night of Michael Lapinski and his identification by Miss Josephine Seidel, 18 years old, as the abductor who attacked her Sunday and held her captive for nine hours.

Lapinski, seized in a bakery, was said by Detectives James Ryan and Joseph Devery to be a paroled Indiana burglar. Lapinski denied he was the man who wrested Miss Seidel from her escort, Urban Kimmel, as they left a dance hall. The girl told detectives her assailant wore an onyx ring bearing the letter "M" and that she had scratched his face with a screwdriver.

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE TO GO TO WASHINGTON

Mayor and Other Officials Leave Tomorrow to Ask Roosevelt for Order.

Mayor Dickmann and a group of city officials and members of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association will leave for Washington tomorrow to ask President Roosevelt for an executive order designed to bring about an early start on the proposed Jefferson Memorial on the Mississippi River front. The Mayor told reporters this yesterday afternoon following a conference with members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Executive Committee of the association at City Hall.

Specifically, the St. Louis group will ask the President for an order setting forth the total cost of the improvement as $30,000,000 and the Federal Government's share as $22,500,000, and commitment to provide the latter sum, even though less than that amount may be allotted for the first year's work.

If such an order is issued, the Mayor said, the city, under the terms of the State Supreme Court's decision Saturday, upholding the validity of the bond issue, can sell the $7,500,000 of city bonds, voted for the improvement Sept. 10, and turn the funds over to the Federal Government for acquisition of the site for the memorial.

Such an order, the Mayor pointed out, also would permit the improvement to proceed in accordance with the State enabling act which provided that for each $1 the city contributed to the memorial, the Federal Government should provide $3. Previously, the Federal Government has declined to allot more money than could be expended for the first year's work.

The Mayor said that the St. Louis group would stay in Washington until a definite commitment was obtained, and would also confer with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Public Works Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator.

City Counselor Charles M. Hay and Associate City Counselor E. H. Wayman will accompany the Mayor. Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the Memorial Association, and other officers of the association, also will make the trip.

EXCISE COMMISSIONER CALLS ATTENTION TO 3.2 BEER LAW

Ordinance Provides Annual License Fee of $62.50 and Sunday Closing.

Excise Commissioner Thomas L. Anderson today called the attention of tavern owners to the fact that the 3.2 beer ordinance had been sustained by Circuit Court and is in effect.

The ordinance provides for an annual license fee of $62.50 and requires proprietors to observe Sunday closing. About 400 tavern keepers have applied for licenses, but Anderson said there were about 1500 3.2 taverns in the city, and owners were warned to make early application for a license in order to avoid arrest. The Excise Commissioner will announce a time limit for filing license applications, he said.

Boycott in Dockworkers Strike.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Union dockworkers of Atlantic and Pacific coasts today put a boycott on Gulf shipping and maritime interests which refuse to recognize the International Longshoremen's Association. Joseph P. Ryan, president of the union, announced that he was issuing orders for the immediate boycott at North Atlantic ports of all ships from Alabama, Louisiana and Texas in cases where "the owners have refused to do business with us." Pacific Coast longshoremen refused to handle cargo loaded by non-union labor, coming from the Gulf.

What Teachers Have Given.

"In the past, a few teachers have not subscribed anything and many have given only $1 or other small sums. It has happened that contributions heretofore have amounted to about 1 per cent of the payroll, and during the last three years about one-fourth of the donations have been designated for the Public School Relief Fund, the remainder going to United Charities."

The payroll of the Instruction Department, nearly all for teachers and principals, is about $7,800,000 a year. One per cent of this would be $78,000. There are about 3000 men and women in the teaching corps.

Pledge cards distributed had blanks for the three funds, to be filled in or ignored as the individual chose. A form letter to principals, over Dr. Gerling's signature, was issued Saturday, requesting that card be given each employee of the department.

Letter From Gerling.

"Division of relief pledges," said the letter, "should be in conformity with action taken at the principals' meeting. Subscriptions, both as to percentages and fund designations, are intended to be voluntary. It is hoped that the amount pledged by a school expresses the desire of all, without an undue sacrifice by any."

Dr. Gerling explained that the meeting had discussed the average proportion of salaries pledged in the past and the average division between the Public Schools Relief Fund and United Charities.

School savings deposits amounting to $96,000 were tied up in the closed Savings Trust Co. and National Bridge Trust Co. Partial payments have been made to all depositors, including the children, in the process of liquidation of these banks, which has not been completed. Dr. Gerling offered a year and a half ago to guarantee any eventual loss in the deposits of various personal funds, up to $25,000. Various persons and groups so far have voluntarily subscribed $1915 towards his guarantee, however. An appeal to the Supreme Court of Missouri has been taken from a recent decision of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, holding that the school children's deposits were not en-

TEACHERS REQUESTED TO HELP REPAY PUPILS

Called on to Give to Fund to Guarantee Savings Tied Up in Closed Banks.

Members of the teaching corps of the Board of Education have been asked to make voluntary contributions to the unofficial fund for reimbursing pupils whose school savings deposits were tied up in two banks which closed in 1933. The request was made as a result of a decision by the school principals at a meeting Wednesday.

Pledge cards have been placed in circulation with spaces for subscriptions to the savings guarantee fund and to two other objects to which school employees have subscribed regularly—United Charities, Inc., and the Public Schools Relief Fund, the last a fund to aid pupils in need of lunches, clothing and other necessities.

"The principals," Superintendent of Instruction Gerling told a Post-Dispatch reporter in response to inquiry, "recommended that an opportunity be given the corps to contribute to the savings guarantee fund, at the same time the other solicitations were made. Subscriptions are not compulsory. The card was printed at the principals' request. No scale of contributions has been authorized, and neither has any division of pledges among the various objects."

PLANS FOR ALOE PLAZA UNDER CONSIDERATION

Commission to Submit Proposals for Improvement to Service Board.

Plans for the permanent improvement of Aloe Plaza, across from Union Station, contemplated in the bond issue of 1923, but never carried out because of delay in extended condemnation proceedings and disagreements over various designs, are again under consideration by a commission, appointed last Friday by Mayor Dickmann.

Members of the commission, who will submit their recommendations to the Board of Public Service, are: Edward A. Faust, chairman, of the Municipal Art Commission; Meyric R. Rogers, director of the City Art Museum; Luther Ely Smith, attorney and chairman of the Council on Civic Needs; and Francis D. Healy, art dealer.

The Municipal Art Commission last June recommended to the Mayor that he appoint a commission to prepare permanent plans that would include the construction of a fountain and ornamental landscaping.

Faust said today that the newly-appointed commission had not yet discussed plans and intended to confer with the City Plan Commission, which would include the construction of a fountain and ornamental landscaping.

Over-appropriations of $13,260, in various accounts of the 1923 bond issue, leaving only $620,000 available of the $2,600,000 voted for acquiring the plaza property and construction of improvements, caused the first long delay, according to a report made to the Board of Public Service in 1928.

The $620,000 was regarded at the City Hall as insufficient, and since the Union Station Plaza property, between Chestnut and Market and Eighteenth and Twentieth streets, was included in the Market street widening condemnation suit, and could not be detached, work on the plaza was delayed until 1930, after additional bonds were sold.

Final condemnation awards on the Aloe Plaza property were made by the Circuit Court in December, 1930, after the hearings on exceptions by property owners had dragged over 14 months. Damages fixed by the Court for the condemned property and other costs totaled $2,460,000, leaving a balance of only $140,000 for improving the plaza. This balance was reduced to about $90,000 by a $50,000 expenditure for landscaping and other temporary improvements to put the plaza in its present form. A $100,000 item in the bond issue of May, 1934, was included for the Aloe plaza, however, making $190,000 now available for permanent improvements.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE FOR FREE COLLEGE

Approves Idea of Obtaining Federal Loan to Open School in City.

The Instruction Committee of the Board of Education approved last night an application to the Works Progress Administration for funds to establish a school offering college courses, without college credit, for persons more than 16 years old. As recommended by Superintendent of Instruction Gerling, the institution would be established in the present Carr School Building, 1421 Carr street. Elementary pupils now there would be transferred to neighboring schools.

The WPA was asked to pay teachers and certain other expenses. Possibly as many as 50 unemployed teachers of superior education would be engaged, as a form of work relief, and the WPA would be asked to provide certain other expenses. Dr. Gerling said the National Youth Administration would be requested to make allowances of $15 a month to needy persons who might enroll. The Board of Education would provide the building, heat, light and one custodian.

Students, who would not be charged fees, might be either graduates or non-graduates of high schools. They would include persons either not desiring or not fitted for college degrees. Dr. Gerling was of the opinion some older high school pupils would be attracted to the proposed college, reducing the burden and expense of high school instruction. The college would adapt its work to the students' needs and would not be subject to the rules of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, governing the regular schools here.

While a curriculum has not been worked out, Dr. Gerling has considered provision for civics and government, economics, history, English, foreign languages, mathematics and other subjects not requiring laboratories. Logan R. Fuller, supervisor of special subjects, would be in charge for the board.

The NYA has made an allowance of $6 a month for carfare and lunches for needy high school students here, Dr. Gerling said. He said a list of about 1200 students to receive this help had been sent to the NYA at Jefferson City last week for approval of the individuals. Payments to these students amount to about $85,000 during the school year.

NEW YORK PICKS ASSEMBLY TODAY, OTHER ELECTIONS

Outcome in Roosevelt's State May Have National Significance — Kentucky
Factional Row.

LAFFOON OPPOSING PARTY'S NOMINEE

Democrats Making Strong Bid for Mayoralty in Philadelphia — New Jersey Voting.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—National leaders of both parties today turned their attention to President Roosevelt's home State, where nearly 6,000,000 voters are participating in an election that may reverberate into the 1936 presidential contest.

The major interest centers in the filling of 150 seats of the State Assembly, lower house of the Legislature, in a contest accepted by Democratic and Republican leaders in State and nation as an indication of New Deal sentiment.

The Democrats won control of the House last fall for the first time in 22 years, with 77 seats, one more than a constitutional majority, against the Republicans' 73.

Attitude of Farley.

While insisting that the Assembly election involves State issues only, Postmaster-General James A. Farley as State and national Democratic chairman accepted the challenge with the assertion, "If the Republicans wish to fight it out on a national line, we'll take them on."

Chandler vs. Swope in Kentucky; Laffoon Opposes Former.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5.—A campaign in which Gov. Ruby Laffoon and a group of his followers have repudiated the Democratic nominee for the governorship is being concluded in the Kentucky elections today in which a Governor and State officials who hold office for four years, all the State Representatives and half the State Senators will be chosen.

The Democratic nominee for Governor, A. B. ("Happy") Chandler, 37 years old, Lieutenant-Governor and lawyer of Versailles, has been supported by President Roosevelt's administration.

Judge Jim Swope, 41, presiding Judge of the Fayette County Circuit Court, Lexington, has called the Kentucky State administration "wasteful and extravagant." He has steered clear of national issues.

Opposition Within Party.

Gov. Laffoon, whose administration-backed sales tax has been assailed by Chandler and Swope alike, declared he would not vote for Chandler. Thomas S. Rhea, the Governor's choice, who lost to Chandler in the run-off primary, attacked Chandler in a speech on the eve of the election and declared he was going to vote for Swope.

There is no clear-cut issue between Swope and Chandler. Both have promised repeal of the 3 per cent sales tax, reform of the State Government and $12 per student for the schools.

Polls at Kentucky's 4219 voting precincts open at 8 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. Counting of the ballots under the State's "honest election law" begins at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Showers and colder weather descended on Kentucky today. Although good roads discount the effect of rain on balloting, wet weather is known as "Democratic weather," since it tends to keep Republican voters in the mountains at home.

Democrats Have Hope of Electing Mayor in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—Contrast of Philadelphia's City Hall, a Republican stronghold for 59 years, is at stake in the election here, today, after a campaign in which the Democrats said they had their best chance since 1884.

Doris Wilson, the Republican candidate, is opposed by John B. Kelly, Democrat.

The last Democratic Mayor in Philadelphia was Samuel B. King, whose term ended in 1884.

GREEK KING NOTIFIES PEOPLE HE WILL RETURN TO THRONE

Message of Acceptance After Recall Vote in Plebiscite Says He "Has No Hard Feelings About the Past."

ATHENS, Nov. 5.—King George II, exiled ruler of Greece, told his people today he was returning home to again take the throne, which he lost in 1923, "with no hard feelings about the past." His statement was the first official declaration of his plans since the plebiscite Sunday when the country voted overwhelmingly to restore the monarchy.

The King's message, sent from London, said:

"Recalled to the throne with the aid of God and by will of the people, I return to Greece with no hard feelings about the past, resolved to be faithful and loyal with a constitutional regime having as my watchword 'my strength lies in love for my people.' I ask for co-operation from all to insure prosperity and happiness for our fatherland."

The message was read to crowds which stood in the streets outside the communications ministry.

Letter and Proclamation.

In a letter to Gen. George Kondylis, head of the Government, the King asked that the following proclamation be published in the newspapers and posted throughout the nation:

"I shall come to my country. The separation has been hard and sorrowful. I have hatred for no one. I look forward to the future with confidence. I am faithful to the regime and will give all my force for the realization of our common sentiments, remembering my beloved father (King Constantine). My force is love for my people."

The proclamation was signed "George II, King of the Hellenes."

The King also expressed his thanks to Kondylis and members of the Ministers' Council "for your congratulations upon the occasion of the great event which has occurred in our fatherland."

"This event," the letter continued, "by God's grace and the will of the Hellenic people, will lead Greece to a new era of collaboration of glory. Tell the Hellenic people of the loving sentiments which I have in my heart."

Preparing for King's Return.

As George II prepared plans for his return, Greek officials predicted the recall of two exiled leaders, George Papandreu, former leader of the United Democratic party, and former Premier Alexander Panastasiou. Both had been sent to the island of Kyklos.

The streets of the capital were still thronged with celebrating Royalists singing the national anthem and carrying portraits of the King.

A large crowd cheered Gen. Kondylis, who seized the Government Oct. 10. Kondylis declared an end to party strife and asserted the monarchy had the support of the Populist party.

An official royal mission, composed of three Monarchist leaders, completed plans to leave for London tomorrow to notify King George formally of the results of the plebiscite.

Further Arguments
ON GUFFEY COAL ACT

"Fighting Civil War Over Again," Says Attorney for Company.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Guffey coal conservation act was assailed in court yesterday by Attorney William D. Whitney as "just fighting the Civil War over again."

Whitney, lawyer for James Walter Carter, president of the Carter Coal Co., who contends the law is invalid, said in continuing arguments in District of Columbia Supreme Court, that the law was a scheme to protect Northern coal producers from Southern competitors.

Whitney declared that after a change in prices Pennsylvania producers lost 28 per cent of their business and Illinois dropped 12 per cent, while West Virginia's tonnage increased 70 per cent.

"So they got up this bill," Whitney continued, "to show Pennsylvania had a vested right to the business it had lost."

Testifying for the Government, Frederick G. Tryon, chief coal economist for the Bureau of Mines, said he thought the "collective effect" of the Guffey act would be beneficial to the industry in that it would result in stabilization, enabling the producers to obtain larger realizations and pay higher wages.

Any increase in coal prices would soon have to be accompanied, Tryon said, by some form of production control if the benefits of the act were to be retained. He said increased prices would result in opening a larger number of mines and thus increase the industry's productive capacity. Previously, Tryon had called "outrageous" a "fundamental and underlying evil of the industry."

MICHIGAN U. DEAN SPEAKS ON CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

Henry M. Bates of Law

tation Is Price of Orderly Government.

ANALYTICAL EFFORT
LACKING AT PRESENT

This Is Critical Period, He Tells Bar Association at Meeting to Receive St.
Louis Award.

The present period in American Government is more critical than the so-called "critical period" during which the articles of Confederation were written, Dean Henry M. Bates of the University of Michigan Law School said last night in addressing the St. Louis Bar Association at Hotel Chase on "Constitutional Interpretation in a Transitional Period."

He spoke at a special meeting called by the Bar Association to receive the annual St. Louis award for 1934-35, presented to it in recognition of its service to the community by disbarring unscrupulous lawyers and raising standards of the profession.

"While I do not believe the Constitution is sacrosanct and above amendment, it is entitled to respect," Dean Bates said in discussing proposed constitutional reform to remove stumbling blocks to undertakings of the New Deal.

Analytical Approach Lacking.

"A great deal has been said on both sides, but it lacks night in respect," Dean Bates said in discussing proposed constitutional reform to remove stumbling blocks to undertakings of the New Deal.

Several Massachusetts children recently have been suspended from public schools for refusal to recite religious grounds, to salute the flag, one of the provisions of the bill, and at least one teacher's case is now before a School Board for refusal to take the oath of allegiance.

The measure provides that every teacher, excepting visiting professors from foreign lands, in every public and private school in the State, must take the oath of allegiance and every public school student must salute the flag.

FARMERS AND AAA CONFER ON CORN-HOG PROGRAM

Department Suggests Grain Production Be Cut 15 to 25 Pct.
Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Farmers and extension workers from 25 states sought today to fit a corn-hog control program into the general outline set by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Wallace signed the formal order yesterday which made possible a two-year adjustment program, intended to stimulate hog production next year, keep it from going too high in 1937, and hold corn production in check both years. Adjustments rates and scales of benefit payments were discussed at conferences today.

The Farm Administration suggested that farmers reduce their corn production next year from 15 to 25 per cent instead of from 10 to 30 per cent, as in this year's program. The reduction would be from a base figure.

Some farmers said a wide range of reductions was desirable because of different farming conditions in different sections. J. L. Boatman of Iowa State College suggested that a 15 per cent reduction was high in the northern sections of his State, while 25 per cent might not take enough land out of corn in some central and Southern sections.

The AAA recommended a maximum up to 100 per cent of the base period, that is the average 1932-33 production. It favored requiring farmers to produce a definite minimum but left open for debate what the minimum should be. It was 25 per cent this year.

RUSSIA PROTESTS TO JAPAN AGAIN ON BORDER CLASH

New Note Repeats Complaint About Alleged Invasion of Soviet Territory on Oct. 12.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—The Soviet Ambassador to Tokio delivered a new note to the Japanese Foreign Office yesterday repeating Russia's protest against the alleged invasion by Japanese-Manchoukuan troops of Soviet territory which led to a sharp encounter with a Soviet border patrol on Oct. 12.

The note expressed "surprise" that the Japanese, in their reply to a previous protest, referred the Soviet Union to the Government of Manchoukuo.

It declared that, since the Japanese have taken the responsibility for "military protection" of Manchoukuo, they should not refuse a direct answer to protests over border incidents, which have become more and more frequent in recent months.

The note pointed out that Japanese, as well as Manchoukuan soldiers, were included in the detachment of 40 men which clashed with Soviet troops, one Soviet officer being killed in the encounter and another wounded.

The Russians maintain the clash resulted from an invasion of Soviet territory, while the Japanese-Manchoukuan say this cannot be true, because the border is not clearly marked.

Any prolonged discussion of border incidents, the Russian note said, "must cast an influence on relations" between the Soviet Union and Japan.

It repeated a former offer to create a mixed commission to investigate the incidents on the spot, and expressed regret that the Japanese have not seen fit to accept this suggestion.

Japanese Foreign Minister Hirota, replying to the previous Soviet protest, presented a memorandum

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Deplores Auto Horror Stuff.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SOME months ago, an enterprising gentleman wrote an article, depicting in all its attendant horror, the aftermath of the automobile accident. With pen dripping in gore, with eyes aghast with sheer fright, he wrote of broken legs poking out of automobile windows at crazy angles . . . of women screaming in the last seconds of life . . . of men blinded and crippled . . . of children cut down in tender years. Receiving wide circulation throughout the nation, this article, seemingly as the inspiration for a perfect deluge of "horror" treatments of the automobile menace.

Now, as I understand it, the essence of the horror psychology is to terrify the person who drives a car that he will proceed with caution at not over 15 miles per hour and thus avoid broken legs . . . women screaming . . . men blinded . . . children cut down . . . etc.

Does it not seem that, conceivably, these articles might have a harmful effect? Many of my acquaintances, after reading the article referred to, were unable to sleep for two or three nights.

Which, may I ask, is the better man to have on the street—the one who knows the traffic regulations and the motor vehicle laws, and knows how to drive—or he who has been lashed into a frenzy of fear by a magazine article?

Which is better—to train automobile drivers by safety lectures on the air and through illustrated newspaper and magazine articles—or to post grim, ghastly reminders of death over St. Louis streets, as our city administration has done?

Which, I submit to you, is the better child—the one who has been told "not to" because the "goblin" would get him—or the one who has been told not to because, to the actual knowledge of his father, or mother, it wasn't a good idea?

Which is the better man at the wheel of a car—an educated skilled driver or a scared neurotic?

The County Hospital Scandal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I WISH to compliment the St. Louis County Observer for its fine stand on this disgraceful and perplexing affair of the St. Louis County Hospital.

I wish also to express my grateful appreciation to the members of the League of Women Voters who marched from every nook and corner in the county to the courthouse at Clayton, there to present their demands to our County Court.

McFadden vs. Stookey.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I T IS indeed with a great deal of interest that I read the editorial in your issue of Nov. 1, about Bernard Macfadden.

I happened to live in Belleville about 45 years ago, when a young man by the name of Barney Macfadden blew into town offering to give his championship belt to any local wrestler that could throw him in 30 minutes.

In our town, there was such person, a former schoolmate of mine by the name of Sam Stookey.

He was somewhat shorter than Macfadden, about five feet four inches, but he measured about 44 inches around the chest and 32 inches in the waist.

Stookey gave Macfadden the fight of his life and the honors were equal.

Another match was arranged, but before any falls were made, the audience chased Macfadden, for reasons never definitely explained.

After leaving Belleville, Macfadden has had a successful career to fame and fortune.

My acquaintance with him is not sufficient to say whether the former wrestler and later practical business man has the caliber to become a dominant politician or diplomat, but, to quote one of his sayings, "I'm always fit to fight."

JOSEPH SAENGER.

Would Sick Naps on Hurricanes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
LET'S do something to eliminate the autumnal loss of life and destruction of property on our South Atlantic seaboard.

After our meteorologists have determined the formation, location and course of these winds, send our navy at them and bombard them out of existence.

This manner of procedure, I believe, would be worthy of the trial and expense, and in my opinion, if thoroughly executed would end these calamities before they gained momentum of any magnitude.

WALDEMAR UDE.

Menace of Sweet-Nonsense-Talking Blondes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I NOTICE that Maj. A. B. Lambert in-dorses proposal of Alderman O'Connor to prohibit operation of radios in automobiles within our city.

I believe Mr. O'Connor should also introduce an ordinance to prohibit young women from riding in the same seat with the auto driver. If Mr. Lambert and Mr. O'Connor think a radio is a distraction, they should have a good-looking young blonde or red-head sit in a machine with them and talk sweet nonsense. Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Lambert might not appreciate such a pleasure, but I hope not.

THOMAS RUNDER.

MR. CURTIS' CHARGES.

The substance of the charges made against the WPA administration in Missouri is that most of the key offices have been filled by Pendergast Democrats. In the opinion of Arthur M. Curtis, Republican National Committee man for Missouri, this is in violation of Mr. Roosevelt's injunction of June 17 last that politics should play no part in the expenditure of WPA funds.

As a consequence of his survey of the WPA personnel, Mr. Curtis anticipates the use of WPA funds for political purposes. He believes the organization "is to function as a partisan political machine. Its course has already been charted and next year we may expect the full power of the Government in the role of relief to be used to coerce voters at the fall election. With a complacency that defies all comparison, this machine has publicly announced its State ticket for next year, from the office of Governor on down, and these funds voted in the name of charity, relief and humanity are to be so disbursed as to carry out that objective."

As a realistic politician, Mr. Curtis could hardly expect the WPA administration to be entirely divorced from political influence. We may deplore until doomsday the preference given as to staff jobs to persons belonging to the party in power, but so long as we live under the two-party system, such preference is inevitable. Mr. Curtis surely is not so naive as to suppose that, if the Republicans were in power and set out to establish a WPA administration in Missouri, they would be chastely non-partisan in their selection of those who were to staff it.

Perhaps time will bear out Mr. Curtis' prophecies as to what will happen when the WPA begins to function, but he is now in the position of denouncing the Missouri WPA for crimes it has not yet committed. It is an indictment before the act. We have misgivings about the expenditure of WPA funds in Missouri, just as Mr. Curtis has. We uphold him in his right, under the rules of the political game, to make what war medicine he can out of conditions in Missouri. His charges, moreover, serve the useful purpose of putting the public on guard. But we have no doubt that if the shoe were on the other foot, if the Republicans instead of the Democrats were dispensing the relief money, there would likewise be ground for misgivings, and statements viewing with alarm would be coming from the trenchant pen of Charlie Michelson of the Democratic publicity staff.

An important point to be kept in mind is this: While it is inevitable that the Democrats will derive political profit from the expenditure of the WPA funds, it is equally inevitable that they will lose votes if the independent voters of the country get the idea that political considerations are dominant in the way the money is spent. Unless the Democrats want to hand their opponents an issue on a silver platter, they will be well advised to heed the administration pledge that politics, in the handling of the money, "is out." An attempt to "buy the election" with the $4,880,000,000 work-relief fund could prove to be one of the greatest boomerangs in American political history.

OR/AND.

Father Coughlin has returned to the air with his two R's, but where formerly it was Roosevelt or Ruin, it is now, in certain conditions are not met, Roosevelt and Ruin. Quite a difference between the alternative and the co-ordinate conjunction, eh, professor?

OHIO'S TRAGIC AFTERNOON.

It was a famous victory Notre Dame won at Columbus Saturday, and we don't intend to subtract the tiniest jot or tittle from the conqueror's crown of glory, but we do propose to explain it.

It is simple enough. Gov. Davey has, unwittingly, told it all. He has confided to the universe that boys who play football at Ohio State University are more than athletes, more than students. They are public servants. They labor furiously for the governing potentates of Ohio. They act as pages for solemn Senators. They read the fan mail of Ohio's stellar Representatives. If a big shot in the State House Ring wants to send a message to Garcia, he summons a football player.

Doesn't that clear it up? Those Ohio football players did not have the stamina to go the full route. For three-fourths of the way, they looked like world beaters. They had the game won up to the last minute before the final whistle. But they were caving as never a team had caved on land or sea, and their ultimate collapse resulted from sheer exhaustion caused by their noble loyalty to the Democratic administration and the cash that goes therewith.

A question raps for utterance. Is it time to divorce football from politics? Let Ohio in sackcloth and ashes answer.

JOVE NODS.

Far be it from us to question the erudition of a sage who has plumbed the remotest depths of philosophy, who has surveyed the map of culture to its last township line, who can write A. B. A. M., Ph. D. after his name, who is forever compiling or appearing upon lists of the "10 greatest" this or that. But for the sacred cause of accuracy, we must append a footnote to a statement by Dr. Will Durant, made in his lecture here Sunday night.

The philosophers' interpreter was disposing of Communism's doctrine of equality. "Nature, unfortunately, made us all unequal," he said. "God must have forgotten to read the American Constitution." The divine oversight, doctor, was with reference to the Declaration of Independence, which says, "All men are created equal." It was a Jovian nod, not one to topple its perpetrator from Olympus, but a nod nonetheless.

GOV. PARK GETS A LETTER.

From its formation, the Missouri League of Women Voters has worked for a better government in State government. Hence, its letter to Gov. Park asking for the establishment of the old-age assistance administrative staff on a merit basis is in line with the campaign which the League has waged for years. But Gov. Park will make a mistake if he puts the protesting letter aside as merely another communication from an organization of women. For the truth is the League has never had a stronger case for trained, efficient workers in the public service. As the Governor is well aware, the number of applications already received is some seven times the original estimate. Under such circumstances, as the League points out, it is necessary not only that there be no "suspicion of partisan bias but that those charged with adjudicating these claims be of the highest competence to make investigations so no pertinent fact escapes and to render decisions with the utmost expedition compatible with wisdom and fairness."

Unless the State administration wants public confidence in the old-age pension system undermined at the start, it will abandon its plan to administer it with brewery salesmen, plumbers, confectioners, and the like, as investigators, and will fill these places with trained social workers.

GREECE'S MOCK ELECTION.

By a vote of 1,491,992 to 32,454, Greece has recalled former King George II to the throne. "It's more glorious than I had imagined," said Gen. Kondylis, regent and leader of the military-monarchist group.

This is a tribute to the efficiency of his election machine rather than a comment on a popular mandate. The decision had already been made, in a forcible seizure of the Government Oct. 10 by Kondylis' followers, and the voting was a mere stage-managed formality. Monarchism would probably have been victorious in a free election, to be sure, but the methods employed left no chance for doubt. One device was the use of colored ballots—blue for monarchy, red for the Republic—to facilitate keeping tab on the voters. And doubtless no election judge was color-blind.

Depression, longing for "the good old days," quarrelling politicians and monarchist propaganda all went to produce the change in sentiment. Even so, the Republic had more friends among the people than the mock election's figures indicate. In a land with an ancient tradition of democracy, a change from the 758,742-to-325,322 indorsement of the Republic given in April, 1924, to the figures now announced is hard to swallow.

George II originally stated he would return only if a fair plebiscite showed a clear majority in his favor. Such a decision assuredly would have been a better insurance policy for his majesty's safety than the lopsided result of a controlled election.

CLAIR KENAMORE.

Clair Kenamore put in 24 fine, active years with the Post-Dispatch. He was deservedly held in high professional regard because of a versatile ability that was adequate to any demand. He was deservedly held in affectionate personal esteem because of his rare poise, serenity and unfailing gentleness.

It has been said that the man of imagination is helpless in the presence of facts. The exceptions, however, are so numerous as almost to void the rule. Clair Kenamore was among the exceptions. He wrote with the flowing ease of the accomplished essayist and with reportorial fidelity to facts. Thus was his work distinctive on the two counts of color and dependability. An enormous fund of historical information and a hall fellowship with the best of literature were riches upon which a discriminating memory was able to draw at will or need.

Such equipment, perhaps, explained his philosophy of life—a philosophy that seemed entirely to exclude drudgery, that invested all his duties and all his contacts with a rarely tempered enthusiasm.

Under the competent direction of Clair Kenamore, readers of the Post-Dispatch went into Mexico with Pershing and, later, followed Pershing into France. In Missouri and Kansas homes, an eye-witness told of grim, heroic days at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne, where the boys of the Thirty-Fifth Division acquitted themselves with the soldierly valor of veterans. The long, long way "From Vauquois Hill to Exermont" was traversed step by step in Clair Kenamore's book, which, with his "History of the 139th Infantry," must have been read in many a lonely midnight with pride and tears.

The war ended at last, and the war correspondent, returning to civilian affairs, was presently to persuade European notables in letters, science, religion and statecraft to contribute to the symposium of the Post-Dispatch's Fiftieth Anniversary edition. That was this newspaper man's major opus, a splendid climax to a career that is now closed.

BARNEY VS. JIMMIE.

Mayor Dickmann is on the warpath and will not be happy until the political scalp of Jimmie Miller dangles at his belt. Jimmie is the big shot of the Fourth Ward, where the election returns display an uncanny trend toward unanimity of opinion.

That is, any man or measure that Jimmie favors is usually indorsed by from 95 to 99 per cent of Fourth Ward citizens. How this is done is not yet a matter of public record. The latest attempt to look into the subject was thrown out of the courts because of a defect in the law. If Barney will lay bare the secret of Jimmie's prestidigitations, he will not only smooth the outlook for his future career, but will enrich the science of political economy.

MANCHOUKUO AND ETHIOPIA.

Of the many precedents cited by Italy in undertaking the conquest of Ethiopia, the most recent and perhaps the most pertinent is that of Japan and Manchoukou. Many factors in the two instances are virtually identical. Japan, like Italy, spoke of population pressure, the need for new regions for economic outlets and for development. Japan also claimed self-defense against Manchurian "bandits" in language greatly resembling Italy's charges of Ethiopian attacks. In view of these similarities the motives of the two enterprises, may not their aftermaths also bear a resemblance?

If so, it is a gloomy omen for Italian expectations. Japan's high economic hopes in Manchoukou are falling short of realization, on the authority of Home and Foreign Commerce, Tokyo's leading financial journals. Investments have failed to give satisfactory returns, this publication says, and Japanese financiers are unwilling, for the time being, to put more capital into the country. The Government Treasury, in fact, has warned against over-investment in the conquered region. Fears are expressed that Manchoukou will yield no profits for some years. Manchurian interests have protested against the heavy entry of Japanese firms in the cotton business. If continued, they warn, this will ruin the native growers.

As a field of Japanese colonization, too, the results have been disappointing. Immigrants find they cannot compete with the Manchurians, whose living standards are below those of the Japanese. There is certainly a warning here for Italy, whose colonists in Ethiopia would encounter a far greater disparity in living standards, as well as in climate. If Japan's expansion projects meet obstacles in a country larger, more productive and less forbidding than Ethiopia, inhabited by people of far less war-like spirit, then Italy may encounter red ink in its own enterprise,

"COME ON, UNCLE, LET'S GO!"

The Crusade Against Bigness

Popular prejudice against bigness is nothing new; it was rife in ancient Rome; it accounts for the fall of feudalism; in this country, it caused the abolition of the Bank of the United States and much repressive legislation; writer believes it to be based largely on envy and says it has put us on road to socialization.

John C. Cresswell in the Magazine of Wall Street.

NOTE that it is the big wolf that is bad. "Little bad wolf" would arouse sympathy. The little fellow, we feel, may be bad but there is an inherent justification of his badness. Circumstances made him that way, probably. More than likely he is bad only because he is forced to be bad by the unfair competition of the big bad fellow who, like as not, is bad because open for the indirect Federal attack upon the poor have most of the votes, powerful chosen way of opposing the badness of the big fellow. If the little fellow sells the Italian colony some peanut oil with labels that convey the idea that olives on trees and peanuts are the roots of plants are the same, we are apt to consider it a smart trade story. But if the automobile manufacturer pictures a car so that a Ford looks as big as a Packard, that is inherent crookedness and inborn depravity.

Popular reformers just naturally attack bigness. It would be foolish to attack littleness. Bigness is rare and littleness is all over the place. The poor are many and the rich are few—votes in the same ratio. The rich man has never been remarkably popular. There is a biological factor here. Nature has always provided opposition to bigness. Small animals gang up on large ones and the minute organisms are the worst enemies of the colossal ones. The 20-ton brontosaurus of the Cretaceous period devoured the forage of the small herbivores and finally ate himself into such devouring capacity that he starved to death.

History is bloody with the exploits of great conquerors who always fell before little fellows in packs or individuals who themselves waxed great. The history of the Roman Empire from start to finish is an extension of the primitive conflict on the banks of the Tiber between the poor plebeians and the wealthy patricians.

Capitalism was born in the democratic overthrow of feudalism, wherein the wealth of Europe had been for a thousand years or more in the possession of the few. And now capitalism is itself assailed by the "have-nots," although it boasts more "haves" than any extensive previous system of economic division. People and kings united to destroy the nobles, and then the people destroyed the kings. In our time the tendency is to restore the kings—dictators—and give all power to them to exercise in the name of the people.

Opposition to industrial and financial greatness has been marked in the United States since 1932, but it has been on its way since the beginning. "All men are born free and equal." In Andrew Jackson's time, the Bank of the United States was hated not so much because it was reputed to be an evil institution as because it was big. So we threw out the central banking system, discouraged concentration of banking power and went in for a hundred years of bank insolvency which culminated in the last 15 years with 15,000 insolventcies and incalculable misery to the very people who feared bigness in banks. Even the Roosevelt administration, in its march to the realization of the state as the climax of economic bigness, has not dared to destroy the venerable system of bank insolvency. It has, however, sought to render it harmless by insur-

Forty years after the annihilation of the Bank of the United States, the railroads were nominated Public Enemy No. 1. So in 1887 came the Interstate Commerce Act. Then came in 1890 the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, with its eventual dissolution of the Standard Oil Co. and its futile assault on the U. S. Steel Corporation. Next came the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Clayton Anti-Trust Act of 1914. With the inauguration of the Federal income tax system in 1913 and its expansion by the requirements of the World War, the door was open for the indirect Federal attack upon great wealth by means of income, excess profits, estate and inheritance taxes; by which, if men or corporations are able to evade legal repression in life, they are inevitably caught in death.

In a democracy, where all power ultimately rests with the people and they are provided with the machinery for using it, it is inevitable that bigness shall always be the shining target of repressive legislation. It is hardly conceivable that in a state where the poor have most of the votes, powerful wealth should not be incessantly assailed. Naturally, of course, a political democracy is bound to work toward industrial democracy. Theoretically, also, it is right that the advocacy of the death sentence for utility holding companies was only a partial application of his belief in the evil of bigness. He would dissolve all holding companies if he had his way. The present Congress is shot through with the enemies of large wealth. Opposition to wealth has fathered hundreds of bills and resolutions, and many of them have been enacted. The assumption behind this legislation is that the wealthy have a rule grabbed or chanced upon the wealth instead of producing it, and that, therefore, they should be compelled to "shell out" and be prevented from fathering new piles of dollars.

That some have vast wealth is held to be proof that all could be well off. We are told to death that at the birth of the Republic 98 per cent of the people had 98 per cent of the wealth and that now 2 per cent of the people have 60 per cent of the wealth, but not a word about the insignificance of the "wealth" of a hundred years ago. Nowadays the vice of envy is a great factor in the drive against bigness. It is evidenced in the angry outcries against large salaries,

Dooming Democracy

From the New Orleans Item.

HITLER cites Germany, Italy, Russia and several lesser states as proof that democracy is doomed throughout the world. "If other (democratic) states have not decayed," he says, "the fact that they rest on democracy does not prove that our (Nazi) authority and principle are wrong but rather that historical processes take time."

In other words, the democratic governments will break down in time. Possibly so. But what about the Nazi despotism itself? What will time do to that?

The Fuesher has right on his own western border several "free cantons" of Switzerland which retain the substance of ancient German democratic usages that existed when Tacitus and Julius Caesar observed the Germans, 19 or 20 centuries ago. One of the Scandinavian countries recently celebrated 500 years of essential democracy. Iceland's democracy is still older.

Russia, Germany, Italy and other European countries haven't had democracy in modern times at all, or had it long enough to try its uses, until the upheavals of the past 25 years. All the states that followed democratic forms 150 years ago still hold to them. The United States, Great Britain and France have been doing pretty well with them.

On the other aspect of the matter, Caucasian history does not support the Fuehrer, either. From the days of ancient Greece and Rome, it records the fall of many despotisms, including the Greek and Roman empires, and the rise of democracies. It is quite true that republics have often sunk into despotisms too. But, by and large, the swing has been toward more freedom, liberty and happiness for the common man. Vastly more of the Caucasian world and its population are democratic now than a thousand years ago.

When Naziism is as old in Germany as democracy is in the Swiss cantons, Hitler can generalize more safely.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

From the Philadelphia Record.

FORMER Senator George Moses (Republican) of New Hampshire, addressing the Committee of One Hundred of Miami, Fla.: "If things go on for the next five years as they have been going on for the past two and one-half years, the country will be ruined."

It is just two and one-half years since Mr. Moses lost his seat in the United States Senate.

which members of Congress and a considerable section of the public are coming to consider vicious without regard to the services rendered in return for them. Salaries are dragged out and published because it is known that they will anger the mob and excite its cupidity. Great accumulations of wealth are derogated even when, as in the case of the insurance companies, their wealth is the wealth of millions of people.

The idea imported from Europe and the so-called Marxians that all wealth is a social result and an unearned increment has penetrated deep during the hard times, and the assumption of great burdens under the Social Security Act—burdens of pensions, unemployment insurance, etc., will fix the popular impression that somehow great accumulations of wealth are something which, like the saloon and the liquor trade, must be licensed and taxed to neutralize their iniquity. The New Deal has given a bent toward the enslavement of wealth which will be difficult to straighten out, if it ever is. It has started us on the highroad toward socialization. How far we shall travel it can be settled only at the polls.

Actual reason, however, is that Bagan, long a familiar figure around Harvard Square, has become father confessor to Franklin Roosevelt Jr., now a Harvard Junior.

General Johnson's Article

Secretary Dern Failed to Get Army's Fair Share of Public Works Money and Most of It Went to Navy.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
(Eighth in a Series of 10 Articles on the President's Cabinet.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. THE War and Navy Departments in our Government stand completely apart from all others in this. It makes very little difference whether it is the War or the Navy peace-time who heads them, except when they inject some such strong personality as Root or Taft or Garrison into Cabinet councils.

This administration doesn't have strong personalities in Cabinet councils; therefore it makes almost no difference at all.

The reason it makes so little difference is that the century-old machines of the military and supply staffs are entirely non-political, permanent institutions, and they simply grind on regardless of who bears the high hat of figure-head control. But there is one slight exception. It makes a great deal of difference where one department of government has to contend with another for shares in a limited appropriation.

The administration policy was for a strong navy, and the appropriations have been made. It was for a sensible army, too, and much has been done to strengthen that—but not nearly enough.

The President was as good a naval officer as any Admiral and he personally—more than Secretary Swanson—led the navy job. The army did not lie so close to his training and tradition, and an opportunity was lost—because Secretary Dern was too complacent in fighting Mr. Ickes for a share of public works.

In its effort to create employment in the heavy industries, NIRA contained almost unlimited authority to motorize and mechanize the civil court by Judge Emma Fall Schofield, who reserved decision but said she would make up her mind within 10 days.

Dry Kentucky? THE administration is keeping an eye on one election today—the wet and dry vote in Kentucky, home of the nation's biggest distilling industry.

During prohibition days, Kentucky was made dry by a constitutional amendment, always difficult to change. Rather than try to change it after repeal, Kentucky law makers put through a bill whereby anyone can walk into a saloon and "prescribe" for himself whatever drink he wants.

Naturally this ran afoul of the dries, who are testing the constitutionality of the act in the Kentucky Supreme Court, where it is almost certain to be found unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court, however, has withheld its decision until after the vote today.

But if today's vote is negative, the chances are that not only will Kentucky be dry, but also that its $100,000,000 whisky industry will be seriously jeopardized.

No Hurry.

ROCK-coated dignitaries of the legal profession who came here to contest the constitutionality of the Guffey Coal-Control Act writhed in anguish over the non-chalance of Justice Jesse Adkins. Obviously impressed by the importance of their suit, the lawyers were on hand bright and early for the opening of the court.

Justice Adkins let them warm the benches. Throughout the morning they fidgeted and twisted while he proceeded with a variety of routine matters. Finally, as noon approached, the restive counsel sighed with relief. Justice Adkins finished the case before him and paused to learn the next on his calendar.

"Well, now, gentlemen," he remarked casually, "I have a lot of people waiting to see me and I haven't had lunch. I think we had better let this go over until tomorrow."

Note—After finally hearing argument, Justice Adkins refused to grant the contesting coal company the injunction it sought against the tax provisions of the law, but did give it a temporary order to withhold compliance with the producers' code. Pending final determination of this issue, the company was required to post a $1500-a-day bond.

OPERA 'TANNHAUSER' CAPABLY PERFORMED

Jeritza and Althouse Heard in Leading Roles at Municipal Auditorium.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

Richard Wagner's "Tannhauser," which was presented last night in the Convention Hall of the Municipal Auditorium by the St. Louis Grand Opera Company, was undoubtedly the most successful performance of the present operatic series. This was true not only of its general effectiveness, but of the individual expositions of the two leading roles by Maria Jeritza singing the role of Elizabeth and Paul Althouse in the part of Tannhauser.

The supreme merit of Mme. Jeritza's performance was in its emotional completeness. She was not just a singer who happened to be dressed up in white satin, but an actress using all the resources of her intelligence, her voice and her magnificent appearance to build up a searching and believable characterization of tender womanhood. Her singing was immensely effective because it always expressed this character and was never confined to being just a vocal exercise. But without the enhancement of her beauty and her magnetic stage presence, it might have been nothing more than rather competent and intelligent singing. Being part of an ensemble, it was the means whereby the second act of the opera was lifted quite above the level of the usual operatic histrionics.

Since Mme. Jeritza was in general so moving and so impressive, one could forgive a little faulty intonation, but her singing of the prayer in the third act was an abuse of such indulgence. It was practically never on pitch and at times wandered as much as half a tone. It was an unfortunate lapse, for it marred rather badly an otherwise beautiful performance.

John Wiethaupt, former judge of the St. Louis County Court, died early today of complications at his home on St. Francois road, Florissant. He was 70 years old and had been ill more than a year.

For many years, he was a leading figure in Republican politics in St. Louis County and retained his interest in politics up to the time of his last illness. He served three terms as a Judge of the County Court, two terms as an associate judge representing the district which includes the northern section of the county, and the third term as Presiding Judge. His last term expired about 20 years ago, when he was defeated for re-election to a fourth term. He also had an interest in the role of Venus, Norma Cordon contributed a voice of rich texture and homogeneous quality to the part of the Landgraf Hermann, Carl Schifferle was a competent Wolfram and Anita Ehlen turned in an effective bit as the young and pretty shepherd.

As for the chorus the least said the better. The most of the time it didn't function at all. The smaller one of its most notable lapses came at the end of the third act, the opera was brought to a close in an atmosphere of confusion. Seemingly it was not a lack of training in the music itself or a lack of singing ability that caused the trouble, but an insufficient number of stage rehearsals. Nobody knew when to begin singing. The ballet suffered no actual collapse, but contributed nothing of importance. Save for the solo by Rita de Leporte the Enchanted was a good deal like May Day at the Girls' High.

Despite the fact that Conductor Ernst Knoch was beset with enough vicissitudes to give him heart failure, vertigo and delusions of persecution he kept things in hand at all times. Temp, dynamics and balance were above reproach, but the orchestra had not rehearsed enough. But with all this it was still a gratifying performance—or, rather a gratifying two acts. All the more credit then to the cast of principals, the conductor and the orchestral personnel. And to an amplifying system which enabled everybody in the hall to hear.

An audience of 7500—the largest of the three operas already given—saw the performance.

MARTINELLI RECEIVES FLAG OF ST. LOUIS FROM MAYOR

Tenor Has Been on Operatic Stage 25 Years; Caruso Only Other Person to Receive It.

A flag of the City of St. Louis was presented to Giovanni Martinelli, operatic tenor who sings in "Faust" at the Convention Hall Wednesday night, by Mayor Dickmann yesterday in recognition of Martinelli's twenty-fifth year on the operatic stage.

The only other person ever to be presented with the city flag was the late Enrico Caruso, famed tenor, who received one on a visit here in 1919. The flag has red, white and blue bars on which is imposed the familiar figure of St. Louis in armor and on horseback.

That did not mean expanding the army by putting more men in uniform, but the reverse of that. It meant putting men behind steel shields on rapidly moving tanks or cars, with quickfiring guns of such range and rapidity as to give one soldier the fire and defensive power of 10, and to multiply the mobility and covering capacity of small groups. It meant salvation of life and limb, and it also meant quickly and vastly increased employment for labor in our most lagging fields.

We muffed that bright chance completely. Those hundreds of millions—which must be spent some day—all were sent aside for Mr. Ickes not to spend, or went to Mr. Hopkins for raking leaves and boondoggling. Hundreds of millions more are being poured down the same rat-holes—while the equipment of our army remains obsolete and insufficient.

We may bitterly regret some day the inability of Mr. Dern to compete with Mr. Ickes in a race to "allocate" funds for public works in the effort—so the statute reads—"to create employment quickly."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

WEARING the gown in which she was presented to His Majesty the Velled Prophet earlier in the season, Miss Grace Ballard White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Block White, 7132 Maryland avenue, will make her bow to society this afternoon at a formal reception at the St. Louis Woman's Club from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The debutante and her mother will stand to greet their guests in the middle lounge of the club, which will be transformed into a bower by a profusion of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Miss White's gown is of chartreuse chiffon, made with a voluminous, brilliant-studded skirt, terminating in a slight train. Her arm bouquet will be of yellow roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. White will be in a gown of hyacinth blue crepe, fashioned with a yoke and sleeves of silver cloth. Her flowers will be orchids, arranged in a shoulder spray.

A Japanese garden effect was obtained in the dining salon, where tea and ices were served from two long tables, by the use of bamboo trees at the entrance, and flower-decked trellises at the far end. A punch table, garlanded with smilax, was set against the trellises and framed by artificial Japanese screens. Concealed lights, directed up the pillars entwined with green, cast a soft glow over the scene.

The hostess has invited to assist her: Mrs. Henry S. Butler, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. William S. McChesney, Mrs. Charles D. Ashcroft, Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, Mrs. Henry C. Whiteside, Mrs. Thomas L. Anderson, Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush, Miss Antoinette Taylor, Mrs. Webster R. Samuel and Mrs. Ernest Ellington.

The following debutantes will serve: Miss Lila Marshall Childress, Velled Prophet Queen, Miss Ann Elizabeth Shapleigh, Miss Jeanne Frances Charlot, Miss Sally Bridge, Miss Judith Oliver, Miss Vera Virginia Angert, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Elizabeth Cole Freeman, Miss Suzanne Bittling, Miss Ruth Delbel, Miss Elizabeth Myrri James, Miss Ruth Bixby Stevens, Miss Martha Westlake, Miss Martha O'Neil, Miss Kathleen Wallace, Miss Marie Taylor Spink, Miss Jane Helen Jordan, Miss Carol and Miss Elizabeth Mansfield, Miss Irene Pettus, Miss Blanche Elliot Fischel and Miss Mary Jessie Connett.

Their favors were shoulder corsages of white bouvardia.

Miss White will share honors with Miss Pettus and Miss Shapleigh at a luncheon which Mrs. Thomas L. Anderson will give Thursday, Dec. 5, the place to be announced later. She will also be complimented with several other of the season's debutantes at a cocktail party, Dec. 21, at which Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, 6106 Lindell boulevard, will be hostess.

The debutante of the afternoon is a graduate of Mary Institute in the class of 1933 and attended Briarcliff Junior College at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. She traveled in Europe with her family in the winter of 1931-32, and spent last summer with them in Bermuda.

Yesterdays mail brought to the debutantes a square of plaidingham, frayed at the edges, to which was fastened an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foster Bixby and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Church Bixby for a tacky party in honor of their niece, Miss Ruth Bixby Stevens.

Printed in red on yellow paper, it read as follows: The night of November twenty-two, There's a personal appearance required of you. The Bixby clan (the uncles and aunts), For Ruth B. Stevens are having a dance. Drive right through the Bridesgates.

Cocktails will be served at eight. The dinner hour is set for nine. Don't dress up but be on time. For tacky clothes we've a definite yen.

So come dressed by the Five and Ten. Wear what you will, it's up to you. The sky's the limit, the lid's off, too."

Responses are to be sent to 13 Portland place, the William H. Bixby home. Miss Stevens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ir A. Stevens, and is named for her mother, the former Miss Ruth Bixby.

Cards were received for two luncheons. One was from Mrs. Sidney Maestre, 4393 Westminster place, for a luncheon at 1 o'clock Nov. 27 at the Bogen Club in honor of Miss Ann Shapleigh, Miss Blanche Fischel and Miss Eugenie Evans. The other, from Mrs. Henry Boeckeler, Upper Ladue road, at 1:30 o'clock Nov. 15, is to compliment Miss Betty Brown, Miss Mary Levering Chambers and Miss Katherine Collins.

Headaches Are Symptoms of Other Trouble

Fatigue and Nerve Strain Are the Most Common Cause.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

HEADACHE is a very common symptom. It is a symptom, not a disease and may mean a number of things. It may be a signal of a physical disorder somewhere in the body, or it may be a symptom of a mental disorder. It is a signal of a physical disorder somewhere in the body, or it may be a symptom of a mental disorder. It is a signal of a physical disorder somewhere in the body, or it may be a symptom of a mental disorder.

I suppose the commonest of all is the fatigue headache. A woman or man—although more commonly a woman—starts out in the morning and overestimates the amount of work she can do. She goes to a lecture, or perhaps to go to a club where there is an entertainment, or to a party. She goes to a lecture, or perhaps to go to a club where there is an entertainment, or to a party. QUESTIONS FROM READERS. G. F.: "I would like to know what can be done for excess coldness in winter. I have trouble with colds and my chest every winter. As I am old and thin, these colds go rather deep."

Answer: People with this sort of constitutional build have to be protected more completely in winter than others, both by clothes and in avoiding drafts and cold rooms.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

STANLEY WALKER'S book, "Mrs. Astor's Horse" (Stokes) speaks numerous celebrities and lesser knowns, whose bad manners appear to have fascinated the critical author.

Walter Winchell. "Mrs. Astor's Horse" is something for the historians of the future and for people who enjoy seeing celebrated faces get red. It has a galloping tempo throughout, and its breezy rhythm is typical of the people Mr. Walker charges with having had taste. In fewer words, what Mr. Walker seems to say is: "These colorful and terrible, terrible people are delightful to know. In fact, they are so interesting, they are worth writing a book about."

Reader's Digest heneceforth will pay authors and publications for whatever material it quotes which is about time. It's something we've grumbled about for months. It is also the reason why one publication (which features what columnists scrawl) must not take anything from this department.

It is Bob Burns' quip about the two chorusers, who were arguing to loud. Finally, one wakened. "I wish you would leave me alone," he pouted. "I've been down on the dumps all day." To which the other meowed: "Visiting friends?" There is a Pole still living at the age of 134, who is alleged to be the only survivor of Napoleon's armies, and Phil Baker says: "Rumor has it that he is sticking around waiting for his bonus."

LOVELY LITTLE FOOL

Betsy Attends Her First Legation Reception, and Finds She Is Involved in Diplomatic Intrigue.

CHAPTER EIGHT.

WHEN Betsy stepped into Raoul's limousine and rode off by his side into the night that was brilliantly clear after the hazy day, she was conscious of being utterly weary. She was too unhappy to notice that the neighbors had crowded in their windows to see who was going to ride in that fine car and that her mother and father on the second floor had drawn back one of the voile curtains to watch her leave.

Just as Raoul had prophesied, when they went down the receiving line, Senor Planiol, the Minister of the Legation, a bachelor receiving with Mrs. Thaddeus Simpson as his hostess, held Raoul's hand cordially and smiled widely beneath his trim, pointed mustache. Raoul was smiling, too, bowing gracefully, murmuring, "My pleasure, Mr. Minister!"

"The minister certainly doesn't look," Betsy thought, "like a man whose country is about to go to war with Raoul's. And he doesn't act as if he wanted to stick a knife in Raoul's back either. And where are Mrs. Simpson's velvet gloves that John Storm told me about?" But in the next moment she forgot the minister, with his colored ribbon and decorations strung across his breast; she forgot that Mrs. Thaddeus Simpson was acting as hostess for the minister; she forgot that Marshall hadn't telephoned to say that he had forgiven her.

For this was Betsy's first legation reception. Her blue eyes were full of it; women in beautiful gowns, prehensile trains curling around their expensively sandaled feet; foreign women with diadems of precious stones and bracelets of diamonds and necklaces of rare rubies flashing bright facets of fire; men in full dress, wearing their medals and breast streamers, and military and naval attaches resplendent in the gold and braid and plumes of their countries. The ballroom was crowded, and there was an overflow of guests on the balconies, in the drawing room, in the music rooms. Soda water, passed noiselessly and gracefully through the rooms with silver trays laden with crystal and gold goblets of champagne. And the music! A marimba band, typical of the Latin! The silvery, bell-like notes ringing through the great halls and making rhythmic magic of the badinage.

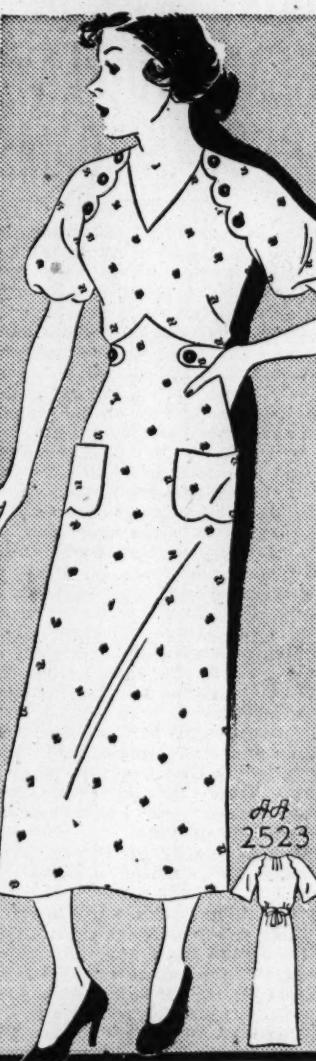

"Oh, what would mother and father give," Betsy thought, wistfully, "to see something like this just once! Oh, how I wish they could! Some day I'll do something big and they'll be invited everywhere, see everything." She touched Raoul's arm, lightly. "It's beautiful!—beautiful!" she said, half-fainting with excitement. "I've never seen anything like this before. And not long after that, he had asked her to marry him."

It was after 1 o'clock when Raoul cut in on Betsy. He held her close in his arms, his lips on her golden hair. He whispered into her ear: "Te quiero! Te quiero! And though she did not understand the foreign words, the inflection of his voice made her know that he had told her that he loved her. Then he danced her through the drawing room, across the hall and rushed her excitedly down the winding marble stairs to the library on the ground floor.

The big room was deserted and Betsy, breathless from two hours of dancing, sank to a big red leather lounge. She thought, worriedly, "I don't like mauling young men."

SHE saw a few of the young men she had met on the yacht cruise and presently she was dancing with them, being cut-in on about every 10 feet. Just as Libby in her bright swirl of petunia satin had been cut-in on that first night when she, Betsy, had met these fashionable people. Raoul stayed in the line watching her, smoking in a leisurely fashion. Like all Spanish men, he had an almost sensuous way of inhaling tobacco. Once, when she caught his dark eyes over her partner's shoulder, just as he had dreamed at her over the gardenias of Jennie's dinner.

TODAY'S PATTERN

Simple Dress

THERE'S nothing quite so nice to "try your hand at" as a simple cotton dress, for it's with just such designs as this that one learns to master the art of dress-making. You'll find you can put it together in almost no time at all, using your competent Anne Adams Instructor as guide. Simpler sleeves than these just don't exist, and aren't they attractively scalloped and button accented? They take veritable inches away from too broad shoulders, just as the entire frock tends to slenderize the heavier figure. Choose a sturdy, pre-shrunk cotton, such as percale or gingham, and let it be bright! Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Pattern 2523 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins on stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Order your FALL AND WINTER EDITION OF ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK! You'll be thrilled with the smart designs it pictures—clothes for all occasions... for all your family. Adorable, easy-to-make Christmas gifts, too. And helpful advice on being the charming, perfectly-groomed woman. A book you'll love and consult frequently—all season! PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

I hope Raoul isn't that kind. But telling a girl that he loves her and then bringing her away from a ballroom into this forsaken library—

"Raoul, I have never had such a glorious time. It's been like... Oh, Raoul!... It has been heavenly!" His intense dark eyes were on her. "I'm glad," he said. He didn't try to touch her, as she had half expected him to. He put his hands off all places—in his pockets. He looked quickly around the room. Then he said: "Wait right here for me, will you? If anyone asks where I am, say I'm upstairs in the drawing room. Will you?"

Betsy was startled. She jerked upright. It wasn't so much what Raoul had said that frightened her. It was the tone of his voice. There was something about him, a coldness, a sudden fierceness. "Why, Raoul, where are you going?"

"Please," he begged softly. "I'm going to play a joke on Senor Jose Ravero. He's military attaché here. Be a sport and help me!"

BETSY had an absurd feeling that she would never understand the foreign sense of humor. They laughed at things that she thought not funny at all and they retained poker faces at something that struck her as being hilariously comical. She had noticed that many times. Now, an American playing a joke would be all giggles, laughter dancing in his eyes, lines of mirth at the corners of his mouth. Raoul was intense, dramatic. He looked as desperate as if he were going to murder Senor Jose Ravero—not play a joke on him.

Betsy laughed lightly, not altogether convincingly. "Right-o!" she said. "I hope you're not going to put tacks in his bed or something juvenile like that."

But Raoul wasn't listening. Miraculously he had pressed a button and a prodigious gold-framed portrait of a South American naval hero slid out from the wall. Raoul, bending low under the beam, hurried into the dark tunnel that he painted had hidden; a tunnel, Betsy suspected, from the location of the Legation, that led to the chancery in the small white marble building in the city.

In the old days if we quarreled with China it took so long for the news to travel that it was forgotten before it was answered. "Where there is no whisper, contention ceases," the Book of Proverbs tells us. In this whispering world, where every word is heard, we must have good manners!

Remember when making chow chow or sweet pickles that pickles become soft and lose their crispness if heated too long in the vinegar.

Whispers That So Often Are Best Unheard

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

ONCE I went into St. Paul's Cathedral in London, as I had often done before, but this time right up in the great dome. Once there one gets a remarkable view of London.

But it was the inside that interested me, because it is known as the Whispering Gallery. Every church has a whispering gallery—at least, we might give that name to the gossip that goes on, but I do not know another quite like the one in the dome of old St. Paul's.

If you speak in a whisper on one side, your words will travel around the gallery and people on the other side can hear what you say, which might be very awkward if you are careless in your remarks.

White Shoes for The College Man. College men have their sartorial follies in abundance, and one of the most puzzling of them is the practice on the part of some of wearing white shoes all year around. We can tell you how the fashion started, but we can't tell you why it has been perpetuated. The idea had its source in the fact that students returned from their summer vacations with the shoes worn during that period and blithely proceeded to wear them out, regardless of season or weather. Today, however, it is an entirely different matter. Many students are purchasing white shoes during the height of the winter season and are wearing them throughout the year—usually without benefit of cleaning.

To Preserve Paint Brushes. It is poor economy to leave a good brush in the paint pot. After each job they should be placed in a receptacle filled with turpentine, and when the work is finished, wash the brushes well in soap and water. Each brush should be squeezed out first with the hands, covered with newspaper. Very thorough washing is necessary; the hairs may have to be well worked or massaged in hot soapy water before all the paint is removed. Then brushes should be dried thoroughly.

Lemon Sponge Pie. One cup sugar, two eggs, rind and juice of one large lemon, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk. Line a pie pan with crust. Cream sugar and butter, add beaten yolks, juice and rind of lemon and milk in which the flour has been mixed. Fold in beaten egg whites. Turn into crust and bake in a moderate oven. The most delicate sort of a dessert to follow a heavy dinner.

Remember when making chow chow or sweet pickles that pickles become soft and lose their crispness if heated too long in the vinegar.

"Did—did anyone come?" he asked, anxiously. "Not a living breathing soul!" she said, trying to be casual. "And what joke did you play on the Senor?"

He looked at Raoul now, at the way he attacked the perspiration on his temples with a big white silk handkerchief, the way his eyes were moving dark and quick around the room as if someone might stop out of the shadows, he knew that Raoul hadn't played a joke on anyone. He didn't know how she knew it, but all at once she was conscious that Raoul's actions had something to do with the receiving line upstairs; with the two countries that were about to declare war. And stark fear went through her body like icy waters pouring over a glacier.

"Raoul!" she cried in a whisper. "It wasn't a joke! You got something from the chancery—a paper—some information—a letter—and I—I helped you steal it!"

Buttermilk Cake. The person who is so fond of buttermilk never seems to finish the amount bought for him or her each day and this is an excellent way to use that surplus. Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, two tablespoons cocoa, one tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon allspice, one pint buttermilk, two teaspoons soda, three and one-half cups sifted flour, one cup raisins, drained and dredged with a little flour. Bake in a deep loaf cake pan for one hour in a moderate oven. A nice cake to have in the house over the week-end.

Buckwheat Cakes. What ho! The winter breakfast! Pour one pint boiling water on one-half cup corn meal and add one-half teaspoon salt. Mix well and when lukewarm add one-half cup white flour, one cup buckwheat flour, one-fourth cup yeast. Beat well, let rise over night and in the morning stir down and beat again. When risen and ready to bake add one-fourth teaspoon soda sifted through a fine strainer. Fry in large cakes on a greased griddle.

Dry silver polish will brighten up the brass bed.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Wednesday, Nov. 6. FIRST of two days for extra cultivation of talent i. the arts and sciences; also for dealing with drama and interests of children. Today: watch the step where women and their needs are involved. P. M. favors financial planning.

Taking Both Sides. A great help in contemplation is to ask yourself questions concerning the subject you are thinking about. For instance, ask yourself: "Is mental courage more valuable than physical courage?" Then think of all the answers you can on both sides of this argument. First take the part of one who defends physical courage for three days' thinking; then take the mental side for three days.

The Bears Have Delightful Time Over Accident

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I THOUGHT it poured from the tin in a rather queer, slow way," said Honey Bear as she looked at the syrup trickling everywhere.

"We'll help you, mother," said the cubs happily. Jelly Bear was looking at Honey Bear with a strange expression on his face. He seemed to suspect she might have used the wrong can just a little bit on purpose.

"Oh no, oh no," growled Honey Bear. "I had no idea that the tin held syrup, but now that I've taken a lick of it I know it is that syrup Willy Nilly had for the pudding one night."

"Yes, I recognized the taste. I was too quick about doing this work, that was the trouble."

"There's an expression I've heard Willy Nilly use," said Jelly Bear, "that one shouldn't cry over spilled milk. I suppose it goes as well for syrup."

"But I did want to get so much accomplished before he came back," sighed Honey Bear. "We're not doing anything about it by talking and moaning," said Jelly Bear.

"Oh dear!" exclaimed Honey Bear. "It's trickling over that rug. Get the rug, Jelly Bear, and lift it where it will be safe. And now get to work hard, my cubs, and lick the floor as quickly as you can. Then we'll wash it although it will not be easy to get rid of all the stickiness."

The cubs were licking the floor now. They were as happy as could be, but Honey Bear was sad to think she had made such a mistake when she had wanted to be so helpful.

"It's sweet work anyway," said Jupiter Bear licking his lips.

Breaded Lamb Chops. These are nice when we want an added fancy touch to the chops for luncheon. Trim loin lamb chops, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in eggs and crumbs and fry in deep fat until nicely browned. Don't crowd the pan with chops or they will not be a uniform brown. Drain on brown paper. Serve on a heated platter garnished with parsley and surrounded with a border of fresh green peas.

Modern Toweling. The modern housekeeper may prefer the roll of paper toweling in the kitchen instead of the old-fashioned linen roller towel. It means no half-soiled towels and no laundry bills. Also the paper toweling is excellent for draining foods that have been fried in deep fat.

Seen Here and There

Prudence Perchase. WE SEE it all in a crystal! A tall, dark man is going to call. And you—well, you will do him very proud, indeed, if you're wearing one of the new evening, dinner, cocktail or bar dresses we saw at GARLAND'S, second floor. Gold and silver lame, gunmetal, metal-shoot purple, matelasse, alpaca, velvet—it sounds like a page from the Arabian Nights, doesn't it? We took special note of a gunmetal dinner dress with silver oak leaves at shoulder and belt, a lovely gold cloth evening dress, and—of all things—a "harem" dress of Bagdad blue in the new street length. From $19.75 to $39.75 at GARLAND'S.

"TIME" was when you had to be a crown princess, or at least a grand duchess, to wear royal Russian sables like those we just saw at LEPPERT-ROOS. And when you see the really perfect beauty of these perfectly matched scarfs (you can get them from one to eight skins) and capes it isn't hard to understand why they had so much imperial approval. And here's the part that is most important to untitled Americans—this year the prices are so low that even the most budget-conscious can afford them.

THEY got plenty of everything—the new holiday dresses that are arriving daily at CUNNINGHAM'S. There's a festive note in the very look of them—bright metallic tops and soft flatteringly pastel-colored tops gleaming above dark brown and black skirts. And you can be in holiday attire all day long, too, because now you can get the new metallic fabrics in daytime and afternoon dresses as well as in evening and bar dresses. In petite misses styles only and from $10.95 to $39.75, at CUNNINGHAM'S.

WE CAN'T help wondering what effect the war in Africa will have on the fashion news. Somehow we just can't imagine going to an afternoon tea in a head-dress like that effected by the war of Judah. But we wouldn't be rash enough to say that we won't come to it!

SOMETIMES we're afraid we're—well, not real—old. For years we've been rooting for HERZ luncheons and we never knew that you could get the same fine food in the evening. And you can! HERZ serves dinner every evening from luncheon till six ($12. All the 706 Washington, only), for only 50c. It's a complete dinner, of course, from soup to one of those culinary poems, a HERZ pastry. And we especially recommend it to those budget balancers who are interested in dishing up to the ticket window before the prices change.

In the County 31 of 650 Are Taken and 52 Settled; Sale Resumed Today.

Sale of delinquent tax bills on real estate, which was begun yesterday, was resumed by the Tax Collectors of St. Louis and St. Louis County today. Sale of city bills will continue through Thursday and county bills through Nov. 22.

In the city sale, conducted at the Civil Courthouse by Deputy Collector Harry Budde, there was only one sale yesterday among the 1200 bills offered. A bill for a 12-foot lot at Jefferson avenue and the Terminal Railroad tracks was sold for $9.76, representing delinquent taxes for 1928, 1929 and 1930. There were only about 25 speculators on hand during the day, most of them buyers of property involved. A total of 3076 bills are being offered for sale.

Forty-one delinquent bills were sold for $328.84 at Clayton courthouse by Collector Willis W. Benson this morning, out of 450 bills offered. Owners of 615 pieces of property had settled their bills for 1930 taxes by paying $3620.81 before the sale began.

Harry Shumate, 26-year-old clerk, 4010 Delmar boulevard, was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse and fined $100 by Police Judge Vest today on charges of driving when intoxicated and careless driving.

He was arrested Oct. 12 at Jefferson and Chouteau avenues. Witnesses said he drove through an electric stop signal and struck an automobile driven by August G. Agricola, 3822A Vest avenue.

Police officers testified Shumate appeared to be intoxicated at the time. He admitted having had several glasses of beer.

MICHIGAN U. DEAN SPEAKS ON CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

ments and the rights reserved to the people; division of government between the legislative, executive and judicial departments, and the power of judicial review of legislation, referred to by him as "our unique contribution and perhaps our only one to political science." "I am not disposed to criticize President Roosevelt for suggesting amendment of the Constitution," Dean Bates continued after explaining that he voted for Hoover in 1932. "Lincoln did it after the Dred Scott decision and it is a perfectly proper thing for the President to do."

Control of Commerce.
"But I should question whether an attempt to give more power to the Federal Government in control of commerce would not do injury to our Government. We should go on adapting and adjusting the Constitution to conditions. It is slower but it is the price of orderly government and stable institutions."

"In attempting the suggested amendment to permit greater control of local industry which may, in any way, affect interstate commerce, there is a collision with the 'due process of law' clauses. If I take my shoes to a cobbler to be repaired, he buys the leather most probably from another state and there is a necessary interaction between his business and interstate commerce. But in attempting to regulate wages in this little business we run into the question of 'due process'."

"Are we ready to wipe out the 'due process' clauses? I think the Supreme Court has sometimes made mistakes in meticulous and legalistic interpretations of what was merely a political standard and not a legal material. Our efforts to make it so have not been successful, but I do not believe the time has come to eliminate 'due process'."

Thomas F. McDonald, president of the association, introduced Kenneth M. Teasdale, former president, who formally presented the St. Louis Award to Daniel N. Kirby, who made an acceptance speech for the membership. Other speakers, commenting on significance of the award, included former State Supreme Judge Fred L. Williams, City Counselor Charles M. Hay, John S. Marsalek, member of the Character Committee appointed by the Supreme Court to pass on applicants for a license, James J. Milligan and William R. Schneider.

NEW YORK PICKS ASSEMBLY TODAY, OTHER ELECTIONS

Majority in the registration lists would be cut down by independent votes. Split in Republicans.
A split in the Republican forces came after the primary election, in which Wilson, now City Controller, defeated Willie Hadley, now City Treasurer and once Wilson's political aid and running mate. Hadley threw his support to Kelly. He said Wilson, registered Democratic last year, was still a Democrat, and that he chose to support Kelly "as between two Democrats."

The full force of the State Democratic organization, led by Gov. George H. Earle, was placed behind Kelly.
At 46, Kelly, former champion Olympic oarsman, is comparatively new to city politics. Himself a Republican several years ago, he switched to the Democrats and became Democratic city chairman.

In 276 communities voters will decide whether they will have Sunday movies after 2 p. m.

In 419 towns and townships in Pennsylvania prohibition is an issue. Republican mayoralty candidate Wilson was unable to vote. He registered Democratic last year and to change his enrollment he would face a challenge.

New Jersey Selecting Legislators; National Issues Raised.

By the Associated Press.
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5.—New Jersey balloted today, primarily to elect State legislators, but party leaders looked to the vote as an important test of New Deal sentiment. President Roosevelt gained a 31,000 plurality in the State in 1932.

The Democrats, in their party platform, pledged "steadfast loyalty" to the President. The Republicans called for the defeat of the "radical New Deal" by voting for Republican candidates. Walter E. Edge, former Senator and former Ambassador to France, took an active part in the campaign and termed today's election "the first and most important round in the presidential election of 1936."

to the Soviet Ambassador on Oct. 25, declaring the incidents should be discussed only with the Government of Manchoukuo, the Japanese Government not being involved.

The memorandum further charged that the clashes occurred when Soviet patrols fired without warning on Japanese-Manchoukuo detachments, and said the Soviet version that the Japanese-Manchoukuos crossed into Soviet territory could not be supported with adequate proof so long as the border was not clearly defined.

In reply to this, the Soviet Government maintained the border was fixed by treaties with China which since have been recognized in Manchoukuo.

All Talk Automobile.
Another Big Wind.
Another Election.
Italy Rolling On.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1935.)

IN New York and other where the big automobile are held early this year, all is of automobiles.

If you are old enough, you back to the one-cylinder car the door in the back, a step down and lift up.

A trade paper of the automobile industry shows pictures of automobiles in days when, driving New York to New Jersey, or any state line, it was necessary to buy new license plates.

Twenty-five years ago, the reminds you, there were 77 as many horses as there were automobiles in the United States that rate there would be no 925,000,000 horses in the country.

The modern automobile is a perfect machine, perfect in beauty, efficiency. To improve on such a machine would seem impossible and one, not an engineer, understanding the mystery under hood, might well choose his car by saying "eeny, meeny, mo."

Heavy windstorms in Florida late in the season are disturbing. Inhabitants are moved away from the Keys. There is no danger, ever, to those who occupy properly constructed and enough to stay in them during short time that the storm lasts.

On this date one year from day, 1936, the presidential election will be two days old, and the try will have settled down to a mild on what is to be during the following four years. Election next year will come Nov. 3.

As soon as the election of today are known, Republicans and Democrats will tell you whether or not this year's election had any REAL bearing on the election of 1936.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, decided not to until after election and the victory for his party "on all fronts," announcing the Roosevelt administration record as the issue.

Lieutenant-Governor A. B. (py) Chandler of Kentucky, being in high pressure campaign, toured his State with a sound carrying a huge red rooster to crow and flap its wings. Lieutenant-Governor Chandler says he and the rooster win that mean that the State is satisfied with the Roosevelt administration.

Addis Ababa reports Emperor Haile Selassie planning a trip to Italy. He would let them Makale, on the way to Addis Ababa, then in deep valleys and gorges the high mountains on the road. Addis Ababa, he would release mighty offensive, wave after of Ethiopians on both flanks. The Emperor hopes to repeat the case of today's Italian so the fate of their "fathers and grandfathers butchered at Adwa 1896."

Mechanical and "engine" genius make war difficult for backward people. Italians on their Makale used midget mechanical scrapers and ditch diggers smooth the road, with "leading" carrying machine tanks. Airplanes flying head make any day time air attack impossible.

War changes "bedfellows" as so rapidly they hardly recognize each other. An editorial in Giornale d'Italia attributed to solini says: "Among the participants in economic siege of Italy, Austria and Germany are found. We extend to them, our enemies, our salute."

FATHER PATRICK BURKE
DIED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

His Parked Truck When He Swerved to Avoid Collision at Bowling Green.

The Rev. Patrick Burke, S. J., pastor of the St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, Grand and Lincoln boulevards, was injured critically yesterday afternoon when his automobile struck a parked truck as he swerved to avoid a collision with another car on Highway 61 near Bowling Green, Mo.
Father Burke, who is 71 years old, suffered internal chest injuries, fracture of the nose and cuts of the head and face. After emergency treatment in Bowling Green he was taken to Pike County Hospital, Louisiana, Mo. He was treated by Dr. William T. Coughlin, of the St.
Louis University Medical School, who went to Louisiana with the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of the medical school, when word of the accident was received here.
Dr. Coughlin, on his return to St.
Louis today, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he regarded Father Burke's condition as "very critical" because of his age.
Father Burke is attended by his brother, Dr. Thomas Burke, Davenport, Ia., and his nephew, Dr. Jerome Burke of Clinton, Ia. He was driving alone in his light coupe to visit his brother when the accident occurred.
It was raining at the time of the accident, Dr. Thomas Burke told. Another automobile, being driven south on the highway, suddenly crossed in front of Father Burke's car to enter a filling station on the east side of the road, which makes a wide curve at the face. He applied the brakes and swerved the car, but it skidded into the truck.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 5.—John Dover of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was testifying against John Bevis whom he arrested after an automobile chase of 45 miles an hour through the streets of Halifax. "Bevis," he said, stuck his left hand out of the car and poured out a brown substance. I had my head out of the side of our car, 15 yards behind, and I tasted it. It was rum." Defense Lawyer Parker Hickey called for an adjournment. It was grant-

IF YOU ASK
My OPINION
By MARTHA CARR

My dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM an official in an athletic association and have served in that capacity since 1930. My contacts with people have been for the purpose of games, mainly with boys and young men. I have never had much time for girls and have never taken them out.
Last month I met a girl I liked very much. I asked her for a date and she accepted. We went to a show, then to a restaurant and then I took her home. After a few minutes' conversation, I said "Good night," without asking for the usual goodnight kiss and other foolishness that accompanies it. Now Mrs. Carr, although I am only 21, I do not believe in all that sort of thing. I liked the girl for her companionship and I didn't take her out to see how many times I could kiss her and boast of it the next day.
But now, when I call up and ask for a date, she says she has a bridge game or else has to go to a church meeting. I read in your column where girls desired gentlemanly treatment. I should like to ask the feminine readers if I am to "slow" or the girl is too fast or did I get a lemon?
JOE.

Your lack of success might be attributed to just the reason you think. But that would hardly seem possible, judging from the numbers of rebellious letters I receive from girls who do not care for this cheap way of ending the evening. It could, however, be attributed to the fact that you have not yet learned how to please girls in other ways; for instance, you may be too matter of fact, may not know how to take an interest in such things as entertaining and her best bit and tuck-er. You may not have noticed the color of her eyes and failed to mention that she looked attractive.
You may have been too didactic; or confined your conversation to the best of our stroke and the fine points of jiu-jitsu; if the girl is inclined to sports this makes a hit, probably, but all the time, in the back of her head, she wants to be told that she is sweet, that her hat is becoming and that she is good company; she likes a small suggestion of the gallant knight (Oh, done in a very modern way, of course) and you may have failed in some of the well-recognized and really important points of etiquette. The best thing to do is to go out more and watch the tactics and manners of boys who are well-liked by girls. I believe you need not resort to the method you suggest in order to make yourself liked.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM a girl 13 years old and very unhappy. My unhappiness is all due to my father. He is so cruel to mother and me. He fusses all the time. Not a day goes by that he doesn't find fault with me. He is so mean. If anyone comes to see us he will insult them and won't speak. It makes us feel awful. And when my girl friends call he starts fussing at me before the girls and they go and tell the other girls.
Mrs. Carr, I feel so down-hearted. I know he don't like us. The Relief takes care of us. Shall we leave him? What shall we do?
UNHAPPY.

A man who isn't providing for his family and who, in addition to this failure, makes them eternally unhappy by such a disposition, deserves certainly to be reminded of it. It may be, however, that he is discouraged about work and about the future; this is the form work sometimes takes with men. But assuredly he is making it all the harder for his family by giving such an atmosphere to his home.
If I were in your place I would confide in my Relief worker, and ask for suggestions about family life, as well as material help. You might ask, too, if the Domestic Relations Court would be a good place to take your troubles. I really believe the Judge might give your father some pointed advice.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
NOT knowing me, I believe you will be able to help me more than someone who does. However, I do not care to have my troubles in the papers and so will ask that you just insert your answer in the column. Shall I let the past be gone with the question in my mind or shall I try to prove to the person who brought me the story that she is wrong?
H.

In using the above letter in the way that I have, I am not exactly abiding by my custom. I could not, in any circumstances, publish an answer to a letter without using some of the letter to identify it. Then, too, it makes meaningless reading and unnecessary mystery-ousness to other readers.
I shall say to this correspondent, however, that she will likely find the information she wants at the office of the marriage license clerk or the Bureau of Vital Statistics, City Hall.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
WILL you please tell me the following dates for the month of June: 24, 1918; June 19, 1917, and Jan. 23, 1920.
FAIRMOUNT CITY.

June 24, 1918, was Monday; June 19, 1917, Tuesday; Jan. 23, 1920, Friday.
Dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM greatly troubled and hence am writing you for advice. I am 19 and married to a girl who is of age. So far, we have kept it a secret, but now must make it known. I would like to know if,

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

my parents could annul the marriage, now. I would greatly appreciate your answer, please, as soon as possible, as we are greatly worried.
H. B.

I am quite sure that, in the circumstances, your father could, and probably would not, have your marriage annulled. If you have not a friend, a lawyer, who can give you expert advice, go to the Legal Aid Bureau or ask some information of one of the Judges of the divorce courts, Municipal Courts Building.

CHILDREN have a right to good schools. When you take them away from them of their just due. It was the doctor talking, the new member just appointed to the local school board. "This was a lone voice shouting in the wilderness. You can't send out a generation intelligent enough to live in the coming age by continuing to give them the kind of school that the grandfathers had. Why use the ox plows instead of our own power driven machines? We are in another era, another age. Unless we rear the children to face the future and bend it to their service this nation is done. If we don't provide the right kind of school the coming generation will have to pay the price of our stupidity."
"It's all very well to talk," broke in one of the older members, "but be reasonable. We have by the hardest kind of economy for the past five years managed to cut down expenses. Now you want to go back to the new-fangled notions we threw out when the depression was on. You'd put us back in the poor house."
"This is a question of social justice," the doctor continued. "All over the country schools have been forced to cut down expenses. Class-rooms have been made smaller so that teachers might be dismissed. Activities, shops, playgrounds, art rooms have been cut out. The result has been hardship for the children. They have been again reduced to passive listening, taking notes, reciting, listening again. All in direct opposition to the well known needs of children. To them action is essential to life. Now they find themselves suffering inactivity. Childhood is smothering, falling under the pressure of lifeless schools."
I am cheering for the doctor and all his kind. Teachers have protested in vain. Parents have been helplessly inarticulate in a world where he who shouts the loudest gets the most. What now? How long shall we keep up this cry of poverty? Have done with it. It will not help. If we continue it we shall soon come upon a poverty more bitter, more deadly than any that has ever overtaken the children of men. It is the better part of valor to dig down and spend now. Equip the schools adequately, and regain the lost ground.
We have no right to cheat children out of the best that life has to offer, a purpose and a will to carry that purpose through. School is where life develops. It is not merely a place for reciting lessons, taking examinations, receiving marks and getting a diploma. School is a place where children live and grow and have their being. It is a place where the hunger, the aspirations, the enthusiasms of childhood are satisfied. It is the promise of everlasting life to those who pass through its doors. No people is stronger than its schools. Enrich the schools and you strengthen the nation. Weaken the schools, starve them and you imperil the nation. No people is stronger than its thinking community.

I am not convinced that the schools are getting a fair share of what money there is, and a fair share means that each child shall have what his nature demands so that he may have his opportunity to succeed.

Common Sense and Crazy Ideas on Diet

CHAPTER TWO.
OF ALL the incomprehensible balderdash which is today being circulated in this country under the guise of health instruction, none is more pernicious in its effects than the so-called diet craze with which our diet-conscious public is beset. I call it pernicious for the simple reason that, next to exercise, diet is one of the most important factors in any health regimen, and whatever makes for an improper notion of foodstuffs and eating is bound to be generally harmful to a great degree. The plain truth is that almost as much harm is done by fad dieting in the course of a year as is done by overeating during the same period. Probably even more harm is done by fad diets, though that may be a broad statement, since most of us do eat too much. Nearly every fad diet is concocted for the purpose of selling some book, some institution, some patent food, or some person. The more sensational or radical the diet, then, usually the better the sale. At least, that seems to be the underlying psychology of the situation. The pity is that usually there are enough misguided persons who fall in with the diet faddists to make the charlatans prosper.

My advice about diet is merely this: "If you like it, eat it!" Or, more properly: "If it likes you, eat it!" I say: "If the diet likes you," just because there are a great many normal, healthy persons with whom certain foods disagree for no discovered reason that science can assign. All of us know people who suffer a peculiarly unfavorable reaction to certain foods. Some get a rash from strawberries. Others experience a "repeating" result from cucumbers, radishes and cabbage. Some have hives after eating shellfish. I once knew a newspaper man who got deathly sick after eating lobster or crab. Even if he unwittingly ate a tiny portion of either in a salad, he turned as red as Chinese lacquer. No one can say what brings about this condition—this man is merely sensitive to these foods. Yet, it is a comparatively simple matter for us to avoid those foods which are, for some reason, harmful, or at least distressing in their effects. That statement is as far as I want to go into the matter of what not to eat.

As an element of diet, there is, of course, the matter of vitamins. How

Be Moderate and You Can Eat What You Like—A Warning Against Foolish Notions About Food.
By Arthur A. McGovern

DIET, exercise, reduction, insomnia, golf—these are a few phases of life discussed by Artie McGovern. Close co-operation with thousands of doctors, the reconditioning of rejected recruits during the World War, combined with 23 years' experience in handling all types of men and women, have gone into the writing of these articles. Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Vincent Richards and Sidney Wood are all ardent McGovern devotees. So are such business leaders as Henry Morgenthau, John J. Raskob and hundreds of others.

scales or "samples" issued and recommended by diet faddists. One really shouldn't have to take a course in differential calculus to learn how to eat, for, after all, eating properly is an amazingly simple habit that comes quite naturally to most of us. The poor fellow standing in the bread line never has to bother about the correct proportion of elements in his food, and I do not believe there is any medical record to show that, if he were suddenly invited to partake of a square meal, he would not ingest a properly balanced diet. To put it another way, eat by ear, not by note! Or, to be more exact, eat by taste, not by list. Food is fuel for the body, just as coal is fuel for the furnace. When the coal burns out, the fire goes out. The only reason the body does not burn out more rapidly is that food has been stored up in the cells as fat, protein and glycogen. The latter is a product derived from the backing of many doctors whom I know. Don't exclude meat from your diet unless so ordered by your physician. Meat is one of the principal sources of protein, and since this element is essential to building up the body and replacing worn-out body tissue, meat should be considered one of our most valuable foods.

There are, perhaps, as many exploded theories regarding the effects of eating meat as there are about any other subject in the whole of diet theory. For decades, many persons, some of them doctors, have moaned our carnivorous habits until an interesting study was made a few years ago in which our hibernating friends, the Eskimos, served as guinea pigs to science. It was discovered that the Northern Eskimo eats nothing but meat, plus a little lichen scraped from the rocks. The Southern Eskimo, on the contrary, eats large amounts of sugar, flour and dried fruits. Investigators found no high blood pressure among the Northern Eskimos—the meat eaters. Among the Southern tribes, however, the carbohydrate eaters, scientists discovered high blood pressure to be as frequent as it is among more civilized communities.

FURTHER proof that man is normally a meat-eating creature is furnished by the very construction of his teeth. For the human mouth is equipped with two kinds—tearing teeth, such as the central incisors, for meat eating, and grinding teeth, such as the molars, for masticating those substances which, in medical language, are known as "hay" or roughage foods. Do you think that wise old Mother Nature would have given us both kinds of teeth if she had intended us to be either exclusively carnivorous or exclusively herbivorous animals?

If you want to be quite scientific about calculating your diet requirements, then you may estimate that a person of sedentary occupation needs 30 calories per kilogram of body weight. One who does hard physical labor needs from 40 to 50 calories per kilogram of body weight. A kilogram is 2.2 pounds. Therefore, if you weigh 220 pounds and your work is not strenuous, you require about 3000 calories a day. If your work is more arduous, from 3000 to 4000 calories should be your daily intake. If your weight is 154 pounds, or 70 kilograms, you will need approximately 2100 calories per day, on the assumption, of course, that you sit at a desk most of the time. As we advance in age and our activity grows less, our need for food decreases. A person who requires 2000 calories daily at the age of 30 should get 1800 calories at the age of 50, or 1500 at the age of 60. The proportion of basic food elements—carbohydrates, fats and protein—in a balanced diet is four parts by weight of carbohydrates to one part each of fat and protein.

Now, all this may sound complicated and involved, but if so we may recall that there are still many persons who enjoy their food that is part of the business of calculating balanced diets. Personally, I refuse to be vexed with any such nonsense. It's all right if you want to do it, but I prefer to eat what appeals to me—and to enjoy it. Though we never give the figures a thought at our meals, nevertheless, in spite of the apparent neglect, we shall manage most effectively

EXERCISE FIVE
Lying flat on your back, hips and head down, arms and legs extended straight upward, kick your right leg downward toward the floor, and bring your left arm over the head; alternate with the left leg and right arm. to get a balanced diet. We are, however, inclined to overlook one important matter, the total caloric intake. In other words, most of us overeat. I don't expect you to romp blithely to the table with a chemist's scales in one hand, and a slide rule, food chart and logarithm table in the other. That would hardly be conducive to promoting a keen appetite. Besides, unless you took a professor of genetic existence that her body has no chance to store excess weight. For other average people, however, I do not recommend her schedule, either in its prodigious consumption of energy or in caloric intake. This woman is not an average person at all. The things she does seem to agree with her.

The caloric needs of the body vary from day to day. More heat units are needed while the body is active than while it is at rest. During the hours of sleep we burn up very little fuel, but when engaged in physical activity we consume more heat units. Physical and nervous activity go hand in hand with food consumption.
Before concluding our study of food we should briefly consider the milk diet so frequently presented as the cure for nearly every known ailment. Now, milk is one of our finest foods—it is considered by medical men to be the one complete, perfect food, since it contains all the vital elements of nutrition. But it has always been my contention, and always will be, that milk should be prescribed for sick persons only. No one in a normal state of health should follow such a limited diet. Of course, if one is afflicted with ulcers of the stomach or with any other unnatural organic intestinal condition, milk is not only a necessary diet but also a curative one. It does not irritate. It is easily assimilated and digested. But its exclusive use as a diet should be followed on the advice of a physician, and not just because some acquaintance recommends it. The healthy person who, for one reason or another, goes on a milk diet, usually tires of its monotony. Who wouldn't? For this reason alone I should never recommend it as a diet for the ordinary man or woman.
Water with your meals? That's another moot question. Some authorities believe that drinking water at mealtime stimulates the gastric juices. My personal opinion, which has been formed after experiments with hundreds of cases, is that water taken with food dilutes the gastric juices and makes them less potent in their effects. I preach the gospel of plenty of water-drinking, but I believe that if you take enough of it for internal cleanliness between meals, you won't want it with your meals.

ANOTHER point that causes many persons much concern is the necessity for hurrying or bolting their food. While the "fletcherizing" process of a few years ago was considered one of the greatest boons to good health, it has, nevertheless, been fairly well established in recent years that it makes very little difference whether one eats rapidly or slowly. Chewing a piece of meat 97 times before swallowing it is, to my mind, making a chore of eating.

There are so many foolish notions, and fads, and fallacies, and phobias, and fears, and other nonsense about the food we eat, that I think the subject is well-nigh inexhaustible. So, just let's get all the ridiculous theories out of our heads and use the following common-sense maxims as guiding rules: Eat what you like so long as it likes you! Eat to live—don't live to eat! All foods are good. Fad diets are fool diets. When you can't find the vitamins—they'll find you!

TOMORROW . . . McGovern will discuss weight reduction in the third article in his series on "The Secret of Keeping Your Health."

Diet Fads for Fools

THE crux of the whole diet problem—really isn't a problem at all—is that there are too many persons trying to capitalize on the gullibility of the American public. Such persons try to sell all the so-called patent foods on the market under the guise of health formulas. In addition to these, some writers, some broadcasters, and the diet faddists to foist their spurious diets onto otherwise sensible persons. Bear with me if I sound somewhat bitter about these people. I have seen too much of what their ideas can do to quite healthy individuals! The number of ordinarily normal, intelligent men and women who have been sold on ridiculous diets is incredible.

The best plan for all such people to follow is to forget the formulae. Forget everybody's formulae. Build your gastronomic thought on the idea that in reasonable quantity anything you want to eat is good for you. Everything you eat does you some good. The only thing you have to concern yourself about is the way you feel after eating.

mathematics along with you, it would prove so burdensome that you would never have time to do anything but work out your eating problems. The thing to do, rather, is to eat in reasonable quantities. Don't try to stoke your one-man power engine as though it had a 60-horse-power capacity.

Taking food seems actually to rest some people as much as sleep does. I know a woman artist who is a veritable dynamo of energy. Often I have tried to slow her down, but she is so surcharged with zest for living, and is so enthusiastic, it is practically impossible to produce any effect on her tempo. She eats heartily and often. In addition to her regular meals, she takes three or four in-between snacks every day. And strangely enough, this does not seem to make her fat. It seems to rest her, instead, and she retains a beautifully proportioned figure and excellent health. The explanation is, of course, that this person burns up so many heat units in carrying on her extremely ener-

No exact answer to this question is at present possible, but I think most women would succeed better as social than as executive leaders, as they have done in the past. The Moss Test of Social Intelligence indicates that women, as a rule, have most situations higher social intelligence than men, and know better what to do in a tight place, requiring tact. This would seem to indicate they have perhaps a natural fitness for social leadership. Many women do make splendid business executives, however, so the answer to this question must be very qualified.

As related in Kreuger and Reckless "Sociology," there is the case of Casper Hauser, 10-year-old boy, found in 1828 in Nuremberg, bearing a letter stating he had been reared by a Hungarian peasant in absolute seclusion from all human beings. He could not talk and knew nothing of human customs, indeed had very little "human nature." Another case was that of the "wolf children" found in India, reared by wolves until they were about 9 years old. They had the habits and attitudes of animals. AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. No exact answer to this question is at present possible, but I think most women would succeed better as social than as executive leaders, as they have done in the past. The Moss Test of Social Intelligence indicates that women, as a rule, have in most situations higher social intelligence than men, and know better what to do in a tight place, requiring tact. Another case was that of the "wolf children" found in India, reared by wolves until they were about 9 years old. They had the habits and attitudes of animals. As Professor Cooley says in his "Social Organization," "without communica- tion the mind does not develop a true

3. Prof. Frank J. Mather, director of the Museum of Historical Art at Princeton, concludes from ex- tensive experiments, as related in Science News Letter, that no one can enjoy a painting longer than five min- utes. The professor states that people who say they can "stand before a painting entranced for hours" soon cease to be aware of the picture and are enjoying their own reveries. He says theatrical performances can hold the attention two and a half hours, with intermissions; music for half an hour straight, literature for a lifetime.

THE League of Nations has 51 names on its peace treaty. It has every signature except the one it wants.

The League cannot get over the European habit of leaving strange babies on Uncle Sam's doorstep. This time it's quintuplets.

Final Testimony Being Given Before Commissioner Limbaugh in Young Mothers' Suit to Recover Baby.

THIS IS FIFTEENTH DAY OF HEARINGS

Muenches Not in Court—Account of Mrs. Muench's Contemptuous Outbreak Last Monday Put in the Record.

Robert M. Zeppenfeld, personal attorney for Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, was the first witness when the hearing in the Anna Ware habeas corpus suit was resumed today in St. Louis Court of Appeals before Special Commissioner Rush H. Limbaugh.

Neither Mrs. Muench, who has been barred from court because of her contemptuous actions of last Wednesday, nor her husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, was present as the proceedings got under way at 10 o'clock. They have not been seen in the Civil Courts Building since the respondents began their defense last Monday to the suit by which Anna Ware seeks custody of the 11-week-old baby now in custody of the Court, identified by her under oath as her own child.

Respondent's Announcement. After Commissioner Limbaugh took the bench at 9:23 o'clock this morning, counsel for the Muenches told the Court that the respondents expected to finish their case today, the fifteenth day of testimony since the proceeding began Oct. 15. Taking of testimony this morning was delayed until 10 o'clock by the late arrival of respondents' witnesses.

Anna Ware's counsel plans to present a brief rebuttal after the close of respondents' case, after which there may be a brief rebuttal by respondents. A third filing of motions to dismiss likely will be presented by the respondents, two such motions already having been overruled. If the motions are again overruled the case would go to Commissioner Limbaugh without argument, and he would report his findings to the Court of Appeals.

Zeppenfeld's Testimony. Zeppenfeld testified that when he saw Mrs. Muench at Clayton June 17, 18 and 19, while an application for a change of venue before her trial on the charge of kidnapping Dr. Isaac D. Kelley for ransom was being heard, she appeared to have grown heavier than when he last saw her, more than six months before.

He saw her again in July and she seemed to have gained still more weight, he testified. He said he next saw her on Aug. 26, "after the report of the birth of a baby to her," and she appeared to have lost weight.

He also saw her during the trial of the kidnapping case in Mexico, Mo., the first week of October, in which she was acquitted, and he judged she had lost about 12 pounds, he testified.

Zeppenfeld said that when he saw Mrs. Muench on Aug. 26 it was at her home at 4736 Westminister place. This was eight days after the reported birth of the baby to her on the early morning of Aug. 18, less than two hours after Anna Ware's newborn son had been taken from her. He said Mrs. Muench got out of bed to conduct him to another room to see the baby, and later sat in a chair, where she was when he left the case.

Mrs. Nettie Beckerle's Record. Muench counsel took 45 minutes to read into the record copies of convictions of Mrs. Nettie Beckerle, one of the petitioner's witnesses, on charges of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses and conspiracy falsely to maintain a child, for each of which she was fined $1000 in 1931. He also read a record of Mrs. Beckerle's disbarment as a lawyer. Mrs. Beckerle, testifying earlier in the hearing, told a confused story of having told Cecil Winner that he, a Wilfred Jones and Grace Masson, took Anna Ware's baby from the Muench home from the home
